CRUMPLED BY JAP BOMBS—First official closeup U. S. Navy photograph to reach Atlanta depicting the disastrous Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor shows the Battleship Arizona, crumpled and toppling, with clouds of black smoke pouring from her stack. A bomb was reported to have passed down her stack, exploding boiler and forward magazine. The sneak "peacetime" raid succeeded in damaging striking power of America's Pacific fleet and paved the way for Nippon's war declaration.

Island Fire Fighters Isolate Blazes Set By Nippon's Raiders

Invasion Troopship Sunk in Strait, 2 Others Routed Under Heavy British Burst of Fire.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
SINGAPORE, Feb. 2.—Heavy black smoke floated across Singapore throughout today from fires started by Japanese air raiders engaged in a grand-scale effort to soften up the stronghold for a final invasion thrust across the mile-wide Johore strait.

(The British radio broadcast a Batavia report saying Japanese naval formations were preparing for an assault upon Singapore in support of land forces from the Malayan mainland. The broadcast was heard by NBC.)

By mid-morning four air raid warnings sounded and bombs were cascaded on widely separated parts of this besieged island. Firemen quickly isolated the blazes they started, limiting the damages to small areas.

The resounding thump of bombs blended now and then with the thunder of intermittent artillery fire from both British and Japanese batteries as reinforced Imperial defenders took up positions within sight of the long, brown invading columns across the strait in Johore Bahru.

Confidence Prevails.
With the curtain slowly rising on the grand test for the $400,000,000 island fortress, a feeling of calm confidence prevailed that the Japanese invader would be thwarted in his bid for this, his biggest and most urgently needed prize.

"I can tell you there are a lot of itching fingers on rifles and machineguns around the island," an officer said near one of the advance posts.

"Just because our guns along Johore strait are not blazing away every minute does not mean our men are not on the alert around the clock."

this juncture or would be content with keeping the island under siege while diverting available forces for operations against the East Indies Archipelago.

Prestige Value.
The majority of observers believed Singapore's great prestige value would prompt the invader to pay the price of a mighty effort to get across Johore strait after small units try to filter into Singapore in small craft or possibly by air.

But informed military men gave the Japanese little chance of succeeding with infiltration tactics such as they used effectively on the Malayan mainland, for tens of thousands of British troops who had to defend and watch 900 miles of coastline on the Peninsula now have only about 70 miles of island front to hold.

A small scale sample of what Singapore's defenders would do to an invasion sortie was given yesterday when three small troop-laden enemy craft—the first to attempt an approach to the island—found themselves engulfed in a storm of fire. One of the craft was sunk, the others put to rout.

The supply of the greatest of all essentials for a long siege—water—was said to be adequate, in spite of the loss of the mainland reservoirs. The heavy rains of the weekend had raised the level in reservoirs and wells which already were nearly full.

Australians Bear Brunt.
The Australians, who had been in the forefront of the bitterest of the fighting in southern Malaya, since yesterday had been in the forefront of Singapore's artillery action as well.

Australian gunners began shelling the main crossroads on the mainland shore yesterday, but aside from this activity the troops occupied themselves in recovering from the long fatigue of the peninsula campaign.

Some sprang back to new life after a single night's sleep; those who arrived here first already have gone out to supervise civilian removal and explore the island—a strange and tangled spot where rubber plantations had been in the jungle and jungle becomes thick mangrove.

The British News Agency Reuters reported from Batavia, Java, that the Singapore naval base on Johore strait was no longer being used; since it was in sight of a range of mainland hills affording position and cover for Japanese artillery. Three of Singapore's air bases were said also to be similarly situated and substantially immobilized.

Nevertheless, the dispatch pointed out that if Singapore and the naval base and air fields were held, they would in time "provide the nucleus of an offensive center." It was added that Batavia fully recognized the great necessity of holding the island, and it was intimated that food as well as water was expected to prove adequate at Singapore.

If Singapore were finally lost, said this dispatch, the torch of the scorched earth policy would be pitilessly applied.

In event of such a disaster, the island in Japanese hands would remain for some time within the bombing range of Allied aircraft, it was added, but the Allies probably would be forced back to a line on Java and would have to depend on the south Java ports for their supplies—via India and South Africa and Australia and America.

Japanese Struggle Desperately To Reach Rangoon

British Indian Defenders Hit Back Furiously

Murderous Fire Poured Into Invading Force Along River.

RANGOON, Burma, Feb. 2.—(AP)—British Indian machinegunners were reported tonight pouring a murderous fire into Japanese troops attempting to cross the Salween river, and the RAF announced that Allied bombers successfully attacked invasion forces on Kadu island, in the estuary between Martaban and Moulmein.

Although the Army communique said the situation on the southeastern front was unchanged, front-line dispatches said the Japanese had succeeded in getting some troops across the Salween eight miles north of Martaban to raid the railway winding almost 200 miles around the Gulf of Rangoon.

Today's the Big Day! Cooking Show Opens

Poor cooks will become good—cooks and good cooks will graduate into better cooks this week as thousands of women take advantage of this annual big Constitution-sponsored cooking school opening this morning at the Roxy theater.

Doors of the theater will swing wide at 8:30 o'clock this morning and the school will take up promptly at 9, with Mrs. Mabel B. Bowen, nationally known cooking authority, in the teacher's chair. The school will be held free to the public, today, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday.

How to get the most out of food—fragrant flavor and energy-building vitamins and calories at low cost, that will be the theme in the lessons Mrs. Bowen will give. With war upon us, women everywhere are anxious to learn better cooking methods, because it's important for health and for the pocketbook, too.

But, of course, cooking as is the past, isn't the only thing housewives will get at The Constitution cooking school. There'll be smart fashion shows, depicting the right things for war days.

How One Man Started Him a Business Boom

Not so long ago, as the calendar flies, one Atlanta electrical contractor decided he had to do something about slack business. Neither he nor his help had enough work to say grace over, to hear him tell it.

Within a few days, however, he had more business than he could handle, even by putting in a lot of overtime. What brought about the difference? A small, but powerful, Want Ad in The Constitution was what caused him to write and say: "We have been kept so busy, by people calling, that we are behind in our work. . . . I believe now that it pays to advertise."

Revolt Against German Rule Rises Again

Instances Are Reported From All Over Conquered Area.

By The Associated Press.
Revolt against German rule has erupted again in conquered Europe, and the Nazi firing squad is taking its inevitable count of victims.

In Paris, the German military commander announced the execution of six youths and the exile of 100 others for a series of bomb and gun attacks on occupation troops.

As usual, all were described as Communists or Jews. But unusual was the announcement that the 100 had been banished to winter-bound eastern Europe. Heretofore the German answer to terrorism has been immediate and indiscriminate execution.

France provided the locale of two other executions. The victims were Belgians who went before the wall at Mons.

Polish circles in London reported 22 Polish Jews were executed recently by the German Gestapo at Warsaw and Kielce for "abandonment of their ghetto."

From the Oslo radio came reports of fires that broke out at the city's east and west railroad stations Sunday a few hours after Vidkun Quisling had been set up as Norway's Nazi puppet premier. Several persons were said to have been injured in the fires which raged uncontrolled until Monday morning.

The Moscow radio broadcast a round-about report quoting Swiss advisers of anti-German outbreaks in Italy and stonings of newly arrived Nazi troops at Florence.

This account, unconfirmed from any other quarter—said further that Italian garrisons in Sicily had been withdrawn following clashes with Germans.

Bundles on the Way For 'Needy' Solons

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(INS)—A drive for "Bundles for Congress," which was started on the west coast after congress decided to vote itself pensions, spread across the country to the national capital tonight when prominent Washingtonians were asked to contribute anything from old straw hats to mothballs for the nation's "needy" $10,000-a-year lawmakers.

The drive was launched by the Spokane (Washington state) Athletic Round Table, which has started more than one prank in its history. By letter and card, the Round Table sent out the following appeal:

"Congress needs help. They voted themselves a pension but that ain't enough. Mail your old straw hats, rags, mothballs—anything that's light and cheap—to congressmen and senators today . . .

"Sally Rand is sending her last stitch. Surely you can spare an old tire . . . 'Bundles for Congress,' quick!"

"Don't worry about the war and taxes. Get that pension, forget the Axis."

"Bundles for Britain? No. Bundles for Hawaii? No. Bundles for congressmen? Yes."

"Save a congressman at any price."

Under the slogan of "Keep 'Em Laughing," the Round Table said the drive also ought to help pep up civilian morale.

"We need to keep the country laughing, and so does congress," the Round Table declared.

Meanwhile, it is reported that the Round Table is sponsoring a cavalcade of trucks to converge on Washington Saturday to dump the "Bundles for Congress" right on the doorstep of the U. S. capitol.

Nippon's Shock Force Repulsed By MacArthur

Defenders in 3 Weeks Yield Half of Batan Peninsula.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The finest shock troops of Nippon shattered themselves against General Douglas MacArthur's indomitable defenders of Batan, the War Department reported today.

Picked Japanese regiments and special shock troops made a double assault on General MacArthur's men in the Philippines, the department reported, and one enemy wing was hurled back to the sea with many of its number drowning and the remainder being killed or captured.

"All enemy thrusts on the west coast have now been completely mastered," MacArthur advised.

Closely following the smashing of an invasion force across Manila bay by the big guns of the Corregidor string of fortifications, the latest triumph promised a possible temporary respite from continuous enemy pressure on the weary little American-Filipino Army.

The latest attack—made on both right and left flanks—was the sixth major land onslaught since MacArthur's outnumbered force withdrew to the Batan peninsula three weeks ago.

While this attack was dealt with as severely as any of its predecessors, the communique made clear that in the three weeks the defenders had been obliged to yield possibly half the peninsula. It was indicated that MacArthur's force now retains an area of only some 300 square miles, about the size of Greater New York City.

GERMAN ACE SLAIN.
LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Reuters said a Berlin broadcast today announced that Captain Wilhelm Spiess, "one of the best German fighter pilots" and holder of the Knights Cross of the Iron Cross, had been killed while leading a formation in a low-level attack on the Russian front.

JUDY GARLAND ILL.
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Screen Songstress Judy Garland returned today from a series of Army camp appearances in the east, suffering from a streptococcus throat infection. Her physician said it will confine her to her home for at least two weeks.

22 JEWS EXECUTED.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The German Gestapo has executed 22 Polish Jews at Warsaw and Kielce for "abandonment of their ghetto," Polish circles here said today.

Price Ceiling Is Set On Washing Machines

Home washing machines and ironers were placed under a price ceiling today by Price Administrator Henderson.

The order prohibits manufacturers from selling washing machines or ironers at prices above those in effect between October 1 and October 15, 1941.

"Congress needs help. They voted themselves a pension but that ain't enough. Mail your old straw hats, rags, mothballs—anything that's light and cheap—to congressmen and senators today . . .

U. S., Britain To Lend China 700 Millions for War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Legislation paving the way for a half-billion-dollar loan to China which President Roosevelt said would increase that nation's capacity "to function with great military effectiveness" was sped toward enactment today by the house.

Chairman Bloom, Democrat, New York, said the Foreign Affairs Committee would hear Treasury and State Department officials at a private hearing tomorrow on the necessity for the legislation.

Bloom introduced a resolution to allow the Treasury to make the credit available after the President had requested it in letters to Speaker Rayburn and Vice President Wallace.

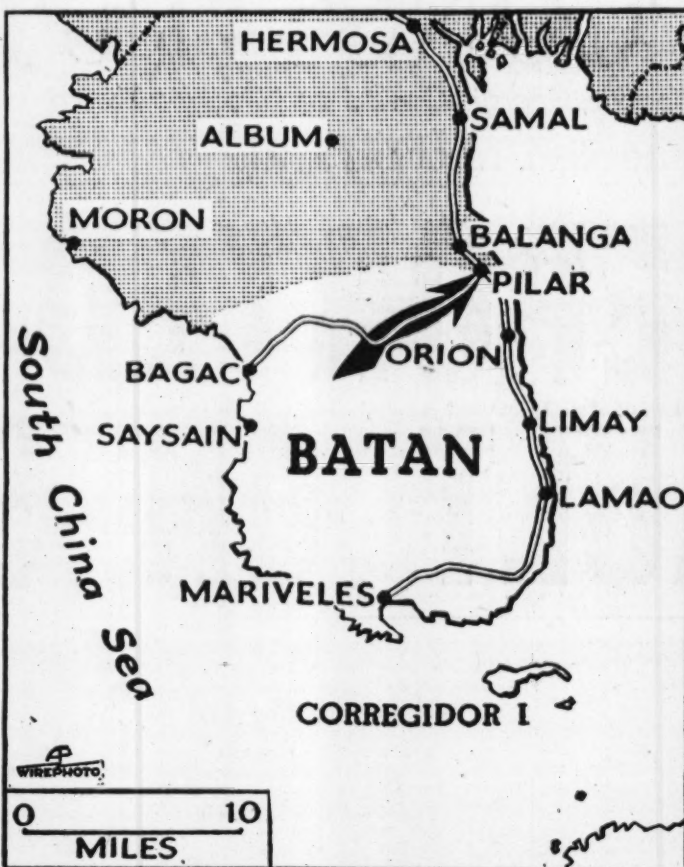

The New Yorker said he had no idea of the purpose of the projected loan or for what it would be used, but expected to find out at tomorrow's hearing. He would not comment on a British foreign office announcement that Britain would lend China up to 50,000,000 pounds for war purposes.

In his letter to the speaker and the vice president, the President said "responsible officials both of this government and of the government of China" had brought to his attention "the existence of urgent need for the immediate extension to China of economic and financial assistance, going beyond in amount and different in form from such aid as congress has already authorized."

The additional aid, the President continued, "would serve to strengthen China's position as regards both her internal economy and her capacity in general to function with great military effectiveness in our common effort."

MACARTHUR SCORES AGAIN—Artillery fire laid down by General MacArthur's Batan forces yesterday smashed a Japanese mass attack aimed at an important road junction near Pilar (arrow). On the opposite side of the peninsula the invaders were forced back to the coast of the South China sea and destroyed or captured.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks Tonight At 8 O'Clock

Defense Rally Address
Will Not Be Broadcast.

A record-breaking mass meeting of civilian defense workers is expected when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, vice chairman of the National Office of Civilian Defense, speaks at 8 o'clock tonight at the city auditorium. Her address will not be broadcast.

Defense officials said yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt would arrive in Atlanta "very late" this afternoon and would not even have time for a press conference before her scheduled appearance at the auditorium. She has agreed to a brief interview following the program.

Doors at the auditorium will open at 6:30 o'clock and no one will be admitted after 7:45. The public is invited. A special section in the balcony will be reserved for Negroes.

Mrs. Roosevelt did not announce her subject but it was presumed she would discuss various phases of the civilian defense program. She will leave Atlanta tomorrow morning after attending a breakfast in her honor. The breakfast will assemble women leaders in the defense movement.

The first lady's appearance in Atlanta is sponsored by the women's division of the Citizens Defense Committee and the Atlanta and Fulton county organizations.

Gross and Meek, of Savannah, heads the women's committee and is arranging for members of her committee to meet prior to Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival.

Mrs. Trammel Scott, leader in Atlanta and Fulton county defense work, will preside at the rally tonight and introduce distinguished guests. Approximately 150 defense dignitaries from all over the state will be seated on the platform.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be introduced by Mayor LaCraw. An executive council meeting of the Citizens Defense Committee will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the new State Office Building, at which district commanders are expected to give last-minute tabulations on civilian defense registration. A report on the progress of the registration will be made to Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. C. V. Minor was chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Clyde L. King Jr., commissioner of the Atlanta Council, presided.

Car Tax Sale In State Stands At 90 Per Cent

Stamps Still May Be Bought Without Increased Charge.

Today the plight of a motorist who hasn't bought a special $2.09 automobile tax stamp is going to be pretty grim—but just what form his sad state will take wasn't made clear yesterday by interested officials.

For example, Postmaster Lon Livingston said sale of the stamps would continue throughout February at all Georgia post offices without any increased charge and added that enforcement of penalties wasn't his job.

United States Internal Revenue Collector Marion Allen, who has charge of enforcement, merely observed:

"Any motorist who drives his car from now on without a stamp will be violating the law. He can leave his car home, however, and buy a stamp, as it were, afoul."

United States Marshal Charlie Cox, whose men would do the physical work of committing to the clink any violators brought into the toils, was engaged in his defense work as chief of Civilian Defense Police and wasn't studying the stamp problem.

Anyway, as Livingston pointed out, 90 per cent of Georgia's motorists have bought stamps and are showing every disposition to comply with the tax requirement. He anticipated 100 per cent response.

Allen announced that farm tractors and like mobile machinery weren't subject to the tax. All governmental vehicles are exempt but certificates must be filed with the collector and free stamps obtained. Lost or stolen stamps will be duplicated without cost upon filing of a notarized form.

at the COURTHOUSE

Fulton county board of education will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon to take up the question of the new "war" time effective February 9. The question is complicated by the fact many parents on their way to work take their children to school, and would be unable to do this if school hours were changed and work hours of parents remained the same.

County Commissioners Ed Almand and I. Glover Hailey have returned from a trip to Washington, where they sought information on civilian defense.

Fulton County Tax Receiver Guy Moore yesterday opened his books for taxpayers to file 1942 returns and to claim homestead and personal exemptions. Returns may be filed through May 1, but under state law the deadline for filing homestead and personal exemption claims is April 1.

Stage Set for Stabbing Trial But Prisoner Had Vanished

Judge Callaway was there and the two arresting patrolmen, Mullen, E. O., and Christian, G. H., were there, and the plaintiff, Lucy Williams, 16, was there with her face bound up where she had been stabbed, and all the witnesses were there.

But when they sent back to get Morris Bell, 16, the defendant, out of his cell, he wasn't there.

That's all there was to it. He just wasn't there. He wasn't anywhere around the jailhouse, though his card was still in the "in-box," and nobody had gone his bail.

Patrolmen Mullen, E. O., and Christian, G. H., can't figure it out. They know the first charge was "disorderly conduct—fighting," which would have put him on the third floor with the misdemeanor prisoners, and they changed it to "disorderly conduct—stabbing," which would have sent him up to the fourth floor.

But they can't figure out what happened, unless some turnkey just mislaid him while transferring him.

Nursing.

Plans for training 1,000 Girl Scouts for their part in National Defense was completed yesterday at a meeting of 200 Girl Scout adult workers at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The adults, working as leaders of Girl Scout troops, troop committee members, and Girl Scout council and committee members, pledged themselves to take part in the program.

Some of the activities planned for Girl Scout groups were gathering books in the Victory Book Drive, each group learning how to plan and prepare an emergency meal over an open fire; making party favors for use in recreation centers of training camps; planning games to play with their families in case of air raids and learning 10 games to play with groups of younger children.

Forty-five Girl Scouts have completed the Junior Red Cross first aid course and a second class is under way, while 52 girls are enrolled in Junior Red Cross home nursing courses, as other activities of the program.

Mrs. C. V. Minor was chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Clyde L. King Jr., commissioner of the Atlanta Council, presided.

Georgia Poet Was Born in Macon 100 Years Ago Today.

Sidney Lanier was born in Macon 100 years ago today.

What the slender Georgian was and what he meant, not to Georgia alone, but to all mankind, was expressed in a centennial tribute written by Dr. Wightman F. Melton.

"He was scholar, musician, poet, dreamer, soldier and lover of peace," said Dr. Melton, himself a poet. "He was a pioneer of the idea of diversified farming, painter of pictures elemental in their appeal, a musician whose flute-notes were the voices of angels on earth, a poet of sentiments that emanate from the heart of the solar system and the inner recesses of the throne of God, and joint-prophet with Burns and Tennyson of the universal brotherhood of man."

How Lanier looked in later life, as he taught literature at Johns Hopkins was described by Dr. Melton in the words of Dewing Woodward, artist, painter and teacher, herself once a student of Lanier.

He was a "slight, fragile-looking figure . . . with luminous, piercing eyes and a voice like that of a muted violin . . . who could turn a shabby, dusty hall into a vaulted temple and paint it with visions of unbelievable beauty."

"Primarily," Dr. Melton wrote, "Sidney Lanier was a musician; he was a poet because music and poetry are sister arts. For some years he was first flutist of the Peabody Symphony orchestra, and Asgar Hamrick, for six years his director, said of him:

Born with Music.
"To him as a child in his cradle music was given: The heavenly gift to feel and to express himself in tones. His human nature was like an enchanted instrument, a magic flute, or the lyre of Apollo, needing but a breath or a touch to send its beauty out into the world."

O. Lanier, the poet, Walter B. Hill, chancellor of the University of Georgia, 1899-1905, said: "Lanier . . . wrote no line which the recording angel would blush to give in at Heaven's Chancery," and Judge Logan Z. Bleckley said, long ago, "His reputation which is now a mere germ will grow into one of the tall cedars of the poetic Lebanon."

In "The Geography of Genius," Dr. James W. Lee, one time pastor in Atlanta, says: "The affable live oak country . . . is identified with perhaps the most brilliant poem ever written by an American, entitled 'The Marshes of Glynn,' in which every blade of tall grass growing around St. Simon's Island is set aflame with light from the soul of Sidney Lanier . . ."

Sweeping Power Over Trade Given Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The supreme court strengthened federal authority over local business today with a sweeping decision that congress can regulate any trade—even that conducted entirely within one state—if it competes with interstate commerce.

Specifically, the court upheld unanimously an order by the secretary of agriculture under the 1937 marketing agreement act fixing minimum prices for milk produced and sold entirely within Illinois. The tribunal took this stand because the product competed in Chicago with milk from outside the state, the price of which was regulated.

Two other decisions upheld federal powers at the expense of state authority. The court held, by divided votes, that:

Alabama Curbed.

1. Alabama could not enforce its state health law in connection with the manufacture there of "renovated" butter. The state considered this butter an adulterated food but was told to keep hands off because the federal government had stepped into this regulatory field.

2. New York would have to recognize the confiscation by the Soviet government in 1919 of Russian property in that state, notwithstanding its own state laws on the subject, because the federal government had granted recognition.

In the Alabama case, the court's 5-to-4 decision found that congress, under its interstate commerce powers, had given the secretary of agriculture exclusive authority to inspect the manufacture of renovated butter and that the state thus could not act.

Three Dissent. But Chief Justice Stone, in a dissenting opinion in which Justices Frankfurter, Murphy and Byrnes concurred, contended that the federal law did not prohibit state inspection as well and that the majority decision "departs radically from the salutary principle that congress . . . will not be deemed to have intended to strike down a state statute designed to protect the health and safety of the public" unless the state act conflicts with the federal law "or plainly and palpably infringes its policy."

Frankfurter also wrote a separate dissent to criticize the majority finding in even stronger terms. He declared that it "gratuitously destroys the harmonious co-operation between the nation and the states in safeguarding the health of our people" and called the decision "purely destructive legislation."

Insurance Money.

The Russian case involved $1,335,653 in assets of a liquidated Russian insurance company. The assets were in the firm's New York office and the state insurance superintendent laid claim for the purpose of distributing them to certain claimants. The United States claimed the funds on the ground that the Soviet government had taken over all private insurance companies under a nationalization decree and that the funds came within an assignment of claims which Russia made to the United States in 1933 when President Roosevelt recognized the Soviet government.

The principal issue was whether the Soviet government's confiscation decree was valid in New York. The court held that it was by a 5 to 2 decision, with Justices Reed and Jackson not participating.

Justice Douglas, in the majority opinion, declared that the previous decisions of New York courts holding the Russian nationalization decrees invalid there, constituted refusal by New York to recognize acts of the Soviet government "which the United States by its policy of recognition agreed no longer to question."

No Tags Needed For Schools Here

Plans for tagging school children for identification were announced yesterday for New York City, but in Atlanta and Fulton county officials said they saw no need for such action as yet.

T. W. Clift, city school business manager, said he had obtained information on where to get such tags if needed, but said the city schools have given no serious consideration to the matter. Jere A. Wells, county school superintendent, asserted the county will not tag the children unless it becomes advisable. He urged that all school students be fingerprinted.

INTERESTED? AND HOW!—Atlanta kids who know what it is to have a friend in a dog gave all their attention last night to Dr. Charles C. Rife as he explained to them how to care for pets—especially dogs—if air raids come. Dr. Rife addressed a meeting of the Junior Optimist Club. The intense faces in this picture show how the boys "took it all in."

Atlanta Boys Learn Fine Points Of Dog Care During Air Raids

Veterinarian Tells Junior Optimist Club How To Bandage Wounds, Fit Splints, Keep Pets Quiet When Bombs Are Falling.

If air raids come, keep your pets—especially your dogs, with you. Most dogs are afraid of thunder and when the big bombers start dropping explosives, it will sound worse than thunder to Fido. He'll want company—and so will you.

So said Dr. Charles C. Rife, veterinarian and member of the Atlanta school board, in an illustrated talk last night to members of the Junior Optimist Club, operated at 777 Bankhead avenue by the Optimist Club and the Salvation Army.

Dr. Rife spent the evening showing the young members how to bandage wounds, how to apply tourniquets to animals, how to place a splint for a broken bone, and other "first aids" for pets that might be hurt in an air raid. "Take your dog or pet into the basement or shelter with you if the enemy starts bombing Atlanta," he said. "It will be a consolation to the dog just to be with you. Dogs get nervous even when it thunders and they will become frightened if you leave them alone in an air raid."

The veterinarian said the English killed a great many dogs at the start of the war to save on food but are sorry for it. "The rats are eating more than the dogs did," he said.

He advised all pet owners to learn how to handle their animals, how to hold them and bandage wounds, so as to save them as much pain as possible. After first aid treatment is given, he said, they should be taken to an animal hospital for tetanus antitoxin injections.

California Fishing Colony on Terminal Island Rounded Up.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Scores of Japanese fishermen and fish cannery workers who live in shacks on Terminal Island were taken into custody today in a surprise dawn roundup.

FBI Agent J. W. Vincent declined to disclose the exact size of the group apprehended, but estimated the male aliens numbered 400 of the island's 2,100 Japanese residents—largest colony of Nippon fishermen in the United States. Female aliens were not detained.

Those taken into custody will be held under presidential warrants pending hearings before enemy alien boards.

Later, said Vincent, those aliens whom the boards do not release will be given "an opportunity to decide between leaving the country and being interned."

Wardlaw Heads Children's Home

Election of Dr. J. C. Wardlaw as chairman of the board of trustees of the Methodist Children's Home in Decatur was announced yesterday. Dr. Wardlaw succeeds B. F. Vinson, resigned.

Others elected to the board were Colonel H. W. Dent, vice chairman; Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell, secretary; Claude Blount, treasurer; the Rev. J. W. O. McKibben and Joe Morris, new members.

Reports for a new infirmary with four wards and 18 beds were outlined by H. B. Mays Jr., superintendent.

WPA Workers To Aid Defense

Georgia's 23,000 WPA workers are being organized for immediate mobilization in air raid emergencies to supplement local forces as demolition and rescue squads, to operate food stations, and to perform other needed tasks.

This was announced yesterday by Harry E. Harman Jr., administrator, who added that everyone in his organization, from himself to the latest project worker, will be available on a 24-hour daily basis.

He made it clear the WPA will not take over the state defense effort but would co-ordinate its work with that of the State Defense Committee.

Experience Used.

"Our experience, gained in such disasters as tornadoes at Gainesville, Albany and Cordele, and floods at Augusta," he said, "is being utilized in preparing for any possible contingency."

Starting with the coastal areas and concentrating in larger population centers, the organization will make available trained workers, ready to move under prearranged orders to any stricken point.

The plan calls for large crews of workmen, equipped with necessary trucks and tools, to reopen traffic lanes, re-establish damaged utilities and demolish dangerous structures.

Many Services.

There also will be groups ready to operate food stations, provide first aid service in homes and at field hospitals, and others groups for clerical help, messenger service and to act as liaison between military and civilian authorities, Harman said.

In Fulton county organization has begun of a number of demolition crews of about 200 men each.

All personnel of the supply fund will be organized into a mobile unit to supply trucks, tools and necessary equipment. School lunch room employees have instructions for setting up field kitchens day or night, and nursery school employees will be mobilized to assist in care of children separated from their parents.

Plan State-wide.

Similar plans have been made for Savannah, Brunswick, Macon and Waycross and are being worked out in Augusta and other areas, Harman said. In Savannah organization is almost complete. Demolition squads of about 100 men each have been set up and each member already has written orders where to report in an emergency.

In addition to emergency duties, WPA workers are performing many other defense duties. In Atlanta, WPA supervisory employees have been assigned as liaison officers in the Civilian Defense offices to assist in the registration and training of personnel. Similar co-operative arrangements have been made in Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties.

Every worker assigned to these emergency duties in the Savannah area, has a set of instructions attached to his written orders.

Senate Votes Record-Smashing 26 Billion Dollars for Navy

Recent Attack On Jap Bases Cheers Solons

Measure Goes Back to House for Action on Additions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Cheered by the assertion that the Navy's attack on Japanese mid-Pacific bases was merely the opening gun of a far-flung offensive movement, the senate unanimously approved today a record-shattering $26,495,255,474 Naval appropriations bill.

With only about an hour's explanation and debate, the chamber passed the measure on a voice vote and sent it back to the house for consideration of more than $2,000,000,000 in additions, the major share of which would be poured into the production of 25,000 new airplanes.

Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, brought the bill before the senate with the declaration that the measure constituted "a clarion call by congress to the American people to endure supreme financial and other sacrifices to achieve total victory in a total war."

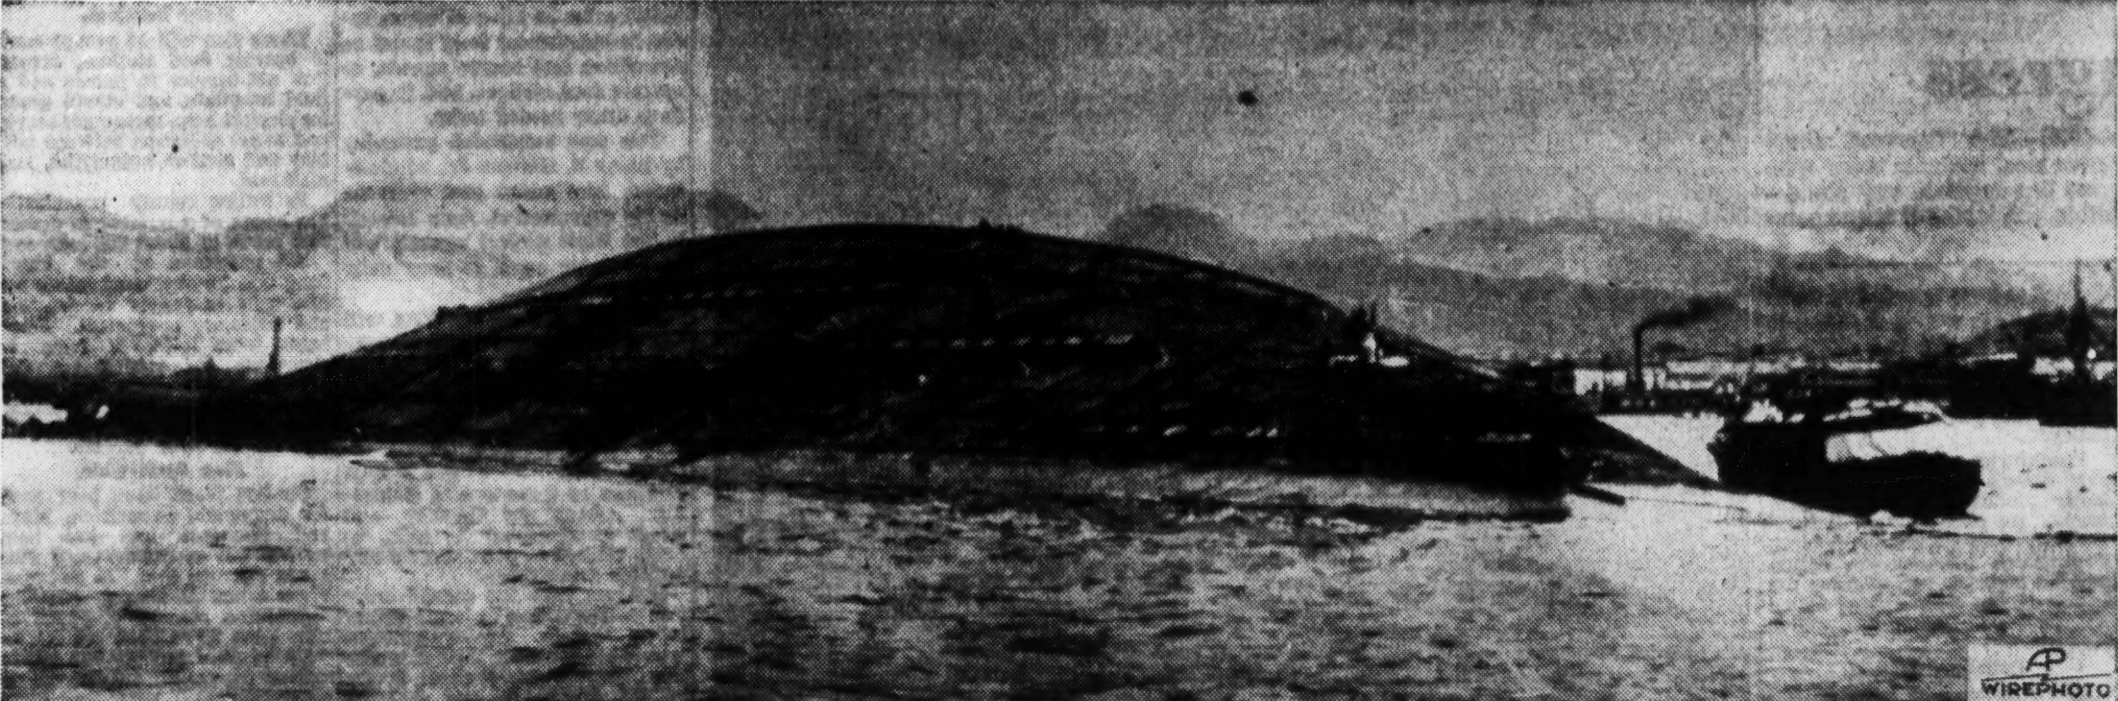

The Navy's battering attack on Japanese bases on the Marshall and Gilbert islands was only the opening gun in an offensive that might find American garrisons all over the world fighting on every continent except our own, Overton declared.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, interrupted Overton's explanation to inquire why the committee found it necessary to add $6,000,000,000 to the total approved by the house a week before. Overton replied that some of the estimates were made before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the Navy had been busy bringing them up to date since.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, said that, while he favored the appropriation, it was just as necessary to pay as to spend. He remarked that the pending bill, considered with a $12,550,000,000 Army bill last week, brought cash appropriations and contract authority up to about $39,000,000,000. Something had to be done at once, he declared, about enacting new taxes.

Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, pointed out that the total of the Navy will exceed the national debt at the close of the last war.

Overton declared that passage

Grim Pictures Of Pearl Harbor Ships Released

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Detailed photographs of burning ships and bomb-blasted steel were made public tonight by the Navy Department to show a grim new chapter to the story of the Pearl Harbor attack.

One of them discloses that the battleship Arizona was so riddled when her forward magazine exploded after a Japanese bomb had dropped down her funnel that the entire forward portion of the 32,600-ton vessel twisted and crumpled away from the after portion as the ship settled to the bottom.

The exploding magazine under the forward turrets of the big 14-inch guns crushed superstructure near it into a tangle of steel on which the tripod foremast fell.

Two of the three destroyers wrecked in the attack are shown. One of them, the Shaw, is settling to the bottom, her forward portion blown to bits while alongside of her a huge cloud of smoke rolls out from another great mass of wreckage.

Still alongside a pier—but settled down until only her deck is visible—is the wreckage of the destroyer. Down, steel ripped from her sides by the force of bomb blasts.

The Utah—a battleship when she was launched in 1909, but for many years since a training and target ship—is seen lying on an inclined expanse of steel, bottom up in the harbor.

London Carries on Advertising, Despite Nazi Bombs, Rations

Study Reveals Demand Far Exceeds Space Available as Pulp Shortage Forces Cut in Size of Newspapers.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(Wide World)—London, where food and clothing are rationed and the shoppers are "less than 20 minutes" from the enemy, is still carrying on its newspaper advertising.

Lord & Thomas, New York advertising firm, issuing today a study prepared by its London branch on British business and advertising in the third year of war, said:

"Woven deep into the ways of democracy is advertising. A bridge between the freedom of people to buy and the freedom of people to sell. No Nazi bombing has been able to destroy that bridge in Britain."

"Every advertisement appearing there today is a flag of defiance; is direct testimony to someone's faith in the future; is someone's toast to victory."

Since the Nazi invasion of Scandinavia, where Britain obtained the bulk of its paper pulp, British newspapers have been reduced to four-page issues and no large posters are available.

Because of this the demand for advertising space in Britain far exceeds the supply but items advertised there include: Soap, radios, dog food, chocolate, shoes, tooth paste, cider, vaseline, beer, fur coats, clothing.

The British government is the largest single advertiser in the newspapers, placing 17 per cent of all advertisements published and even on such a major news announcement as the clothes ration.

U. S., Japan Agree On Consular Swap

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The State Department announced today that Japanese diplomatic and consular officials held in this country would be returned to Japan by way of Portuguese East Africa.

The Portuguese government has been agreed upon to handle at Lisbon the exchange of representative of European belligerents.

Various details still remain to be agreed upon department officials said, but negotiations have proceeded to the point where an agreement in principle has been reached.

Jury Expected To Make More Graft Charges

Additional Indictments Are Reported Under Consideration.

More indictments in the state graft investigation are expected to be returned today by the Fulton county grand jury.

It was understood last night those to be named were among the 20 already indicted by the previous grand jury, which began the probe into alleged graft during the administration of former Governor E. D. Rivers.

Rivers, his son, E. D. Rivers Jr., D. B. Blalock and others were among the score indicted on charges of conspiracy to defraud the state.

Indictments were expected to be returned yesterday, but at 5 o'clock a witness was still being examined and Foreman Jonas H. Ewing adjourned the body.

FCC Probe Requested By Congressman Cox

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, introduced a resolution today for a congressional investigation of the Federal Communications Commission.

Under the resolution, a five-member committee would determine whether the FCC "is acting in accordance with law and public interest."

Cox said his proposal had produced "great laughter" by some in the FCC who had a "monumental contempt" for the house.

He said there was a division among the commissioners as to the necessity for the inquiry and that "one gentleman would give both his eyeballs to prevent it."

Rios May Take Office at Once Due to Crisis

Acting President Mendez May Resign in Favor of New Leader.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 2.—(AP)—President-elect Juan Antonio Rios may take office immediately because of the world crisis rather than wait until April 2, the constitutional date for his inauguration, informed political circles said today.

Rios, the pro-democratic candidate who advocates full co-operation with the United States, was elected by 30,000 votes over General Carlos Ibanez del Campo Sunday.

Well-informed sources said Vice President Geronimo Mendez, acting president since the death of Pedro Aguirre Cerda November 25, might appoint Rios minister of interior, and then resign in favor of the president-elect.

Rios would then assume the presidency provisionally as the ranking government official. Chile and Argentina are the only Western Hemisphere nations which have not broken relations with or declared war on the Axis. Many of Rios' supporters expect him to force a rupture of relations.

U.S. Bombers Shoot Down 9 Jap Fighters

Four American Planes Repel Attack by Interceptors.

Destruction of nine Japanese fighter planes by four American Army bombers during a raid in the Netherlands East Indies was reported last night by the War Department.

One of the American bombers was lost in the fight, an Army communique said, which took place when the bombers were en route to attack Japanese shipping in the harbor of Balikpapan on the east coast of Borneo.

The communique reported also that small formations of heavy Army bombers raided enemy shipping and air fields elsewhere, specifically identifying Japanese air fields at Kuala Lumpur and Kuantan in Malaya.

Batavia Threatened.

Meanwhile, the threat to the Netherlands East Indies capital of Batavia increased as Japanese planes hovered over Bangka island in the Java sea only 200 miles to the north.

This aerial vanguard of invasion apparently was based on Dutch West Borneo, where it was concluded that Japanese troops had seized Pontianak, the big port city only 440 air line miles from Batavia.

Bangka, noted for its rich tin deposits, is off the Sumatra coast and would serve as an intermediate stepping stone for a direct Japanese onslaught against Java, seat of the United Nations command.

Pontianak Occupied.

"From unconfirmed sources," a Dutch communique said, "it has been concluded that Pontianak had been occupied by the Japanese."

The Dutch announced last week that vital installations and equipment at Pontianak had been destroyed after Japanese troops landed at Pemangkat, 85 miles to

Nazis Advance 100 Miles in Desert Drive

British Admit Germans Push in 'Considerable Strength.'

CAIRO, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The British acknowledged tonight that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's desert army had pushed on another 100 miles since the fall of Bengasi three days ago in a drive which has carried a third of the way across Cirenaica in a week and a half.

The high command said the Axis advance still was in "considerable strength," and reported that engagements had taken place at Maraua, the Slonta area, and near Musu.

Maraua, 85 miles northeast of Bengasi, is almost midway between that port and Derna. Slonta is 19 miles farther northeast.

Only in the Musu area from which the Axis forces veered north last week to strike past Bengasi were the British on the offensive. They said their mobile columns at that flank of Rommel's drive captured four Axis vehicles and their crews, apparently in patrol operations.

There was no mention of Barce, 60 miles northeast of Bengasi, which the Germans claimed to have captured. Although it lies behind the Maraua and Slonta fighting sectors, the British intimated that defense forces of some size had been by-passed by the Axis advance forces and were continuing in action intact.

Motion To Shift Church Hours Is Voted Down

Christian Council Rejects Proposal To Move Up Time 30 Minutes.

The Atlanta Christian Council yesterday rejected by a vote of 21 to 17 the motion of Dr. Wallace Rogers, chairman of a committee to make recommendations as to service hours in Atlanta churches, that, where practical, all churches move up their service hours 30 minutes. At the matter now stands all churches are expected to arrange meeting hours to suit individual plans.

Dr. Roland Q. Leavell, Baptist secretary of evangelism, addressed the gathering relative to the visitation evangelistic campaign to be promoted by some 40 churches in the city. After showing the visitation method to be that employed by Jesus Christ when he sent out 70 lay workers, two-by-two, he told of his experience in three meetings—at Winston-Salem, N. C.; Beaumont, Texas, and Decatur, Ga.—where this method was employed, with additions to church church membership of more than 100 persons during each meeting. He predicted success for the visitation effort among Atlanta churches.

Reds Continue General Drive Against Nazis

Russians Speed Advance, Prepare for German Spring Push.

By EDDY GILMORE.

MOSCOW, Tuesday, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Red Army continued to pound the Germans all along the central and southern fronts in a vast effort to disrupt the Nazis' spring offensive plans, but the midnight communiqué acknowledged stiffening resistance and the withdrawal of Soviet forces from the eastern Crimean port of Feodosiya.

Feodosiya (which the Germans said they recaptured January 19 after losing it December 31) was abandoned "some days ago," the communiqué said, and told of repulsing strong German counterattacks, inflicting heavy losses in men and equipment.

(The Berlin radio said the Germans had repulsed the Soviets east of Artemovsk on the Kharkov-Rostov railway—a point some 80 miles east of the salient which the Russians said several days ago had been driven as far as Loozovaya, between the Donets and Dnieper rivers.)

In the Barents sea Soviet warships sank three enemy transports totaling 8,000 tons, and in the week ended January 31 the Russians destroyed 160 planes compared to their own losses of 39

Charitable Unit Is Incorporated

Love, like a great many other things, now has been incorporated in Georgia.

Secretary of State John B. Wilson revealed yesterday that he had issued incorporation certificates to "Everlasting Love, Inc." of Decatur.

The organization, the petition sets out, is a charitable one and will be devoted to providing boarding houses for children, convalescents and shut-ins; establishing religious community centers and schools.

Petitioners were listed as H. J. McNeill, Gladys H. McNeill and Agnes H. Conser, of Decatur.

aircraft, the announcement said. Eleven more German planes were destroyed Sunday.

Indicative of the general Red Army sweep westward, however, was a Tass report that the first trainloads of Donets coal had reached factories in the Moscow region over an entire railway line reopened by the Soviet armies.

The agency did not name the line to the Donets basin.

(The main rail line extends through Orel, Kursk and Kharkov, points which the Russians have been attacking but have not claimed officially to have captured.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The government announced today it would permit Puerto Rican and Virgin Island rum makers to continue output of rum for the rest of 1942 at a rate of 90 per cent of their operations last year.

Whole Pacific Fleet in Action, Nimitz Says

All Men, Ships Being Used To Seek Out Enemy.

HONOLULU, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Every ship and every man of the United States Pacific fleet, afloat and ashore, is now being utilized to the fullest extent to bring the war to the enemy's front door, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said today.

The fleet's spectacular assault on Japanese concentrations in the Gilbert and Marshall islands Sunday, the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet commented, was in accordance with the characteristic United States Navy tradition—seek out the enemy and destroy him.

"The question 'Where's the fleet?' was answered partly by the splendid achievements in the Marshall and Gilbert islands," Admiral Nimitz said in a statement.

"Thus your fleet is busy—every moment of every day and night, across the vast reaches of the Pacific, specifically in those areas where it can most effectively harass the enemy and contribute to our own security."

"I can attest that every ship, every plane, every officer and man of the Pacific fleet, afloat, aloft, and ashore, is being utilized to the fullest extent, both to safeguard America and to bring the war to the enemy's front door."

It was Admiral Nimitz' first comment on the attack in the southwest Pacific in which a large number of enemy auxiliary vessels were sunk and many planes destroyed.

Henderson Nominated Submitted to Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The nomination of Leon Henderson to be federal price administrator was submitted to the senate today by President Roosevelt. Henderson has been acting administrator.

Other nominations sent to the senate included:

Rear Admiral Alexander H. Van Keuren, Washington, D. C., to be chief of the Navy Department's bureau of ships.

Colonel Walter B. Smith of the Infantry, Indianapolis, and Lieutenant Colonel Laurence S. Kuter of the Air Corps, Milwaukee, to be brigadier generals.

House Votes To Accept Signal Mountain Land

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The house passed today a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to accept donations of land on Signal Mountain near Chattanooga, Tenn., for an addition to the Chickamauga-Chatanooga National Military Park.

The bill would authorize the acceptance of five acres of land offered by the town of Signal Mountain for the development of the area, including parking facilities.

State Chemists To Mobilize at Parley Tonight

Purpose to Aid Civilians in Fight Against Gas in War.

Mobilization of Atlanta and Georgia chemists to aid civilians in combatting chemical and gas warfare is to be effected at a meeting at the Georgia Tech chemistry lecture room at 7:30 o'clock tonight, Professor Harold Friedman, of Georgia Tech, declared yesterday.

All Georgia chemists, teachers of chemistry and advanced chemical students in colleges have been invited to attend.

"We are asking chemists, who already are familiar with chemicals and gases, to attend the meeting and then become instructors to train civilians how to fight gases," Friedman, who is on the committee for chemical and gas defense of the first military district of Atlanta, said.

J. F. Seagraves, a member of the Atlanta fire department, who studied chemical defense at the Edgewood arsenal in Maryland, will speak.

Friedman pointed out that chemists already are technical men and can aid in detecting and distinguishing the various kinds of chemicals and gases used in war. They also can aid greatly in decontaminating gassed areas, and also will know what kind of first aid to give victims of gas.

"This is entirely a voluntary movement," the Tech professor asserted. "The chemists can be very valuable in this broad work."

He said he expected several hundred to hear Seagraves' talk and to volunteer to train civilians in this phase of defense.

Price Schedules Now Available

Schedules, forms and releases of the national Office of Price Administration now are available at the Atlanta regional office, 44 Pryor street, it was announced yesterday by Oscar Strauss, regional director.

"With the passage of the price control act these rulings will have the effect of law," he pointed out. "We want to be sure the public knows what we are doing. Then affected parties will know what is expected of them."

WHERE DO YOU RIDE ON A TWO HUMPED CAMEL?

The two humped, or Bactrian, camel is a very popular form of transportation in certain parts of Asia. The passenger rides in the depression between the humps—obviously, the most comfortable place on a Bactrian camel.

ON BUSES AND TROLLEYS, TOO

ATLANTA'S Trolley and Bus system also has its two "humps" or "peaks." The first hump occurs in the morning at about 8:30, when the number of workers riding to their daily jobs reaches its highest point. The second hump occurs in the afternoon at 5:00 to 5:30 when workers are homeward bound.

On account of the great increase in riding caused by War conditions—the shortage of automobiles and tires, and the sharp upturn in employment—trolleys and buses are likely to be crowded in the peak periods.

In the valley between the peaks—during the period from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.—there is a comfortable ride for everybody.

For shopping and on other occasions when you can pick your own time, please ride during these non-rush hours. You will help essential workers and, in addition, get better service yourself.

Remember, the most comfortable place is between the humps.

Income Tax Inequities

It is always desirable that the responsibilities, as well as the privileges, of citizenship shall fall upon all citizens alike.

In time of war, however, it is vitally important that all shall share, in equal ratio, the costs, the sacrifices and the difficulties of fighting that war. The selective service act recognizes that principle and enforces it in practically ideal manner, in so far as actual service with the armed forces is concerned.

The paying of taxes for the support of the government and for the prosecution of war should likewise be on an absolutely democratic, equal and fair rate to all. This thought was expressed by President Roosevelt when, in his budget message to the congress, he said "a fair distribution of the war burden is necessary for national unity."

Despite this, however, the present federal income tax laws leave loopholes by which many taxpayers may avoid the payment of their full share, according to their classification in the income brackets.

These favored taxpayers are married couples, especially those in the higher income range.

In nine states, for instance, there is what is known as the community property system. In these states the law assumes that the income of the husband belongs equally to the husband and wife. Yet, since the husband has full control of the entire income he is, in practical effect, in no different position from a husband in a non-community property state. In both instances the income is devoted to family purposes.

Yet, in the nine states, a husband earning an annual salary of $10,000 is allowed to report only $5,000 as his income and his wife reports the other $5,000 as hers. The two together pay a total tax of $965. In the other 39 states, however, where the husband must report the whole $10,000 salary as his income, he must pay a tax of $1,305. Thus the married citizens of nine states enjoy an unfair advantage over those of 39 states and escape paying the full rightful share of their cost of the war.

Which, of course, means it must be paid by the rest of us. The United States Treasury estimated that this special privilege costs, on the basis of existing rates, about $65,000,000 a year.

However, there is another inequality affecting married couples in all the states. This is the method of taxable income assessment for husband and wife, which results in two families, in virtually the same economic position, paying vastly different taxes.

For instance, if a husband has income of $100,000 a year, he pays, under present law, $52,748 in taxes. However, if that income is derived from securities half of which are in the wife's name, each pays separately on incomes of $50,000. Each pays $20,926, totalling $10,896 less than when the income is solely in the husband's name. Any man can, therefore, by payment of a relatively small gift tax, secure a perpetual saving on income taxes in this proportion.

It is unfair and should be remedied. For there should be no discrimination, either by state or federal laws, between individuals. A married couple, living together, is in fact the economic unit and all such units should pay taxes on exactly the same basis.

Equity is the democratic way and, especially in time of war, is the only way to assure national unity and equal carrying of the burden of conflict.

Citizens All

American citizenship confers great privileges. It also demands great duties and responsibilities.

Judge Robert L. Russell, of the United States court of the northern district of Georgia, presided at a recent session here when a large group of persons, natives of other countries, were admitted to American citizenship. Having satisfied all requirements of the examiners and of the court as to their fitness, they took the oath of allegiance and were made a part of that body composed of other Americans, native and naturalized, but citizens all, who gladly and happily accept the responsibilities of citizenship, in war or in peace.

Judge Russell, in addressing the group of new citizens, declared there is no place in American life today for the selfish or the laggard.

"You are coming into the kingdom of American citizenship," he said, "in strenuous and momentous times, when the existence of our system of government and manner of living, our individual liberty and our private property are seriously threatened. . . .

"The citizen indifferent to the problems of the present, whether through ignorance or inclination, and unwilling to do his part in preserving America and its institutions, is a menace to the welfare of all.

"We need today the same qualities of unselfishness, patriotism, undying devotion to our system of government, and willingness to make any sacrifice necessary to achieve victory, which were so splendidly manifested by those who founded this government and under whose guidance it grew. . . . Remember, it is only the home of the brave that is the land of the free."

Those words might well have been addressed to every American citizen, native-born or naturalized. For they epitomize the privileges and the duties of citizenship, at all times, but more today than ever before.

For the American citizen is of little honor to himself or his nation who is not willing, if need be, to give his very life itself for the preservation of the nation to which he owes allegiance and all those freedoms and justices for which it stands.

Another Enemy

The United States is at war with Germany, Italy and Japan. Not to mention a few of the puppet states of the Axis who have said "me, too," when their Nazi or Nipponese masters ordered.

There is another enemy of this nation, however, who has taken a far greater toll of American lives and American equipment than, so far, all the Axis combined.

That enemy is named "Accidents."

In 1941, accidents took the lives of two divisions of men within the selective service age limits.

Accidents killed or disabled sufficient workers in America to build, within the year, 20 battleships, 200 destroyers and 7,000 heavy bombing planes.

Traffic accidents alone, in each of nine months of 1941, killed more Americans than died at Pearl Harbor on December 7.

The nation's toll of traffic deaths in 1941 was greater than for any previous year. These dead of the streets and highways numbered 40,000, with 1,400,000 non-fatal injuries, but which included 110,000 permanently disabled. The loss from traffic deaths was estimated, economically, at $1,800,000,000.

Total deaths in the United States from accidents of all varieties were 101,500. Injured were 9,300,000 and economic cost was put at $3,750,000,000 by the National Safety Council.

We gasp at the roster of killed and injured on the battlefronts.

We should more quickly win the war if we saved, by the exercise of sane care, wherever we are, the lives of these regiments and armies of our people who compose the annual casualty lists of the ever-present war against our most lethal enemy, Accidents.

FIRE FROM THE AIR

(From The Hosierton News)

A good many sincere but misguided people are blaming retailers for price increases, and the steady rise in the cost of living. The retailer, after all, stands in a close relationship with the consumer and is a handy goat.

However, the facts show that retailers have done an extremely good job in holding price increases down. The statistical charts tell the story of rising wages, salaries, taxes, rents and all other costs. Between June, 1939, and October, 1941, the wholesale cost of food increased 31.5 per cent—yet the retail cost increased only 19.2 per cent. The wholesale cost of clothing increased 18.7 per cent—and the retail cost only 12.5 per cent. The same thing is true of practically everything sold at retail. In short, retailing, by increasing efficiency and economy, and in some cases by voluntarily reducing its modest margins of profit, has passed only a part of wholesale price increases on to the consumer.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

OPTIMISM OVER ECONOMY WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—

While the war will continue to be our all-absorbing concern until it is won, many thoughtful business leaders, dazed by the staggering amount of governmental spending and the complete transition of industry from a peace to a military basis, have been unable to suppress some anxiety over the future.

They are wondering how we are ever going to liquidate the huge sums we are borrowing to finance the war effort, how—even in victory—we are going to be able to meet the economic readjustments of peace, what we are going to do with the millions of new workers displaced by the ultimate stoppage of war production, and a thousand other problems coming with the end of the war.

To these and other questions which might be giving serious thought to the future economic scheme of things, a note of optimism is offered in the latest report of the National Recovery Planning Board, the special body of eminent economists appointed by the President some time ago to prepare a comprehensive study of anticipated post-war problems.

The report is worthy of the attention of everyone having misgivings over the future outlook.

TO MAINTAIN INCOME LEAD In a word, it presents the encouraging conclusion that the wartime income level now projected can be maintained after the conflict, with production directed to useful peace channels.

The tremendous productive power of the nation now being mobilized for war purposes can be mobilized for peace with equal efficiency, to give the nation the highest standard of living it has ever known, with the same effort under private business management, according to the report.

The study was prepared by Dr. Alvin H. Hansen, noted Harvard economics professor and special adviser to the Federal Reserve Board. He rejects the thesis that a post-war depression is inevitable, as many competent business heads have been inclined to feel.

Dr. Hansen asserts that the view is not supported by past experience. Here is his more optimistic appraisal:

EXPANSION OF RESOURCES Expansion of production resources being brought about by the war effort, and the vast growth of skilled labor accomplished by the present training program, combined with a "positive governmental program" of full employment, will result in the expansion of old industries and the springing up of new ones "to produce a substantially higher real income for civilian needs than any ever achieved before in our history."

The economist concludes that the job can be done by private business, although extensive government planning is required, and probably government spending, to guarantee a sustained demand.

On the thesis that continued government spending will probably be necessary, the report declares that private business has been able to sustain demands for only limited periods, with the result that "private industry and government together must act to maintain an increase output and income to provide substantially full employment."

SEES CONTINUED DEMAND Dr. Hansen denies the argument that civilian demand to keep America at its peak production rate will be devoted after the war, he writes:

"There is plenty of work to do. We need improved manufacturing equipment to produce more and better goods at lower prices. We need to carry on extensive research in the laboratories of our great private corporations, in our universities, and in government bureaus to create new products and develop new processes. We need to rehabilitate and modernize our transportation system—by land, water and air."

"We need continued advance in the techniques of production, distribution, and transportation; in short, in all those elements that enter into a higher standard of living. We need to rebuild America—urban redevelopment projects, rural rehabilitation, low-cost housing, express highways, terminal facilities, electrification, flood control, reforestation."

VITAL NEEDS "Many developmental projects open fresh outlets for private investment. We need a public health program, including expansion of hospital facilities. We need a nutrition program. We need more adequate provision for old age. We need higher educational standards in large sections of our country. We need a program to include and extend our cultural and recreational facilities. We need an enrichment of the material and spiritual resources of our American way of life."

"We have seen how it is possible to mobilize the productive capacities of the country for war. We can also mobilize them for peace."

DANGER IN BOOM Finally, the economist points out, the demands which we will not be able to fill during the war for normal goods will build such a reserve buying power that there may well be "a strong post-war boom," which may, in fact, constitute "the gravest danger," in that it may lure us to sleep and end up in a depression.

The situation brought on by the transition of the automobile industry to war production need only be cited as an example of the reserve demand for goods after the war. There will be no new cars in the market for years. We know by the new models are again in production in a few years, the flood of demands will be terrific. And so with many other industries now on a war production basis.

This Thing Called Faith.

Some of us don't realize it, but without faith life itself would be impossible. Even in the happiest times, man could not face the future with its uncertainties for a little while, it is a great certainty, a sure thing, a death, and then the uncertainties of after death, unless he had, somewhere deep within him, a firm faith in some deeper meaning, some eternal purpose in creation.

Many men call this faith religion, and many others cannot acknowledge its presence in their consciousness. Yet it is there, for without it life would drive man mad with frustration, would itself become a torment too fearful to be borne.

If, then, life requires a deep and everlasting faith to make it possible for sentient beings even in days when all the world looks bright, how much more essential to sanity and life is a deep faith in days such as these, truly the most horrifying and fearful in the history of modern man.

We must have a faith, we must cling to it, if we are to stand up under the shocks and dangers and terrors of a whole world at war.

Let us, therefore, try for a little while to define the faith that upholds us through the disappointments and reverses of war.

Based Upon Faith in God.

Whatever form your personal interpretation of God takes, it is upon your belief in that personal God and His supreme power, that your faith in ultimate triumph for the right in man's struggle, rests.

The soul that knows a good and kindly and pure God, knows, beyond argument and beyond human reasoning, that right, justice and mercy must be the eventual victors in any earthly struggle.

Like war, then, this is a spiritual mental right, the right of the individual man to liberty.

We know that freedom for man

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Goodbye Washington

DETROIT, Feb. 2.—Years ago in my little home town in Minnesota, John Powers, our constable, used to pick up bums who tarried to maybe crack a safe or rob a clothesline on the way to and from the wheat fields and take them before our august mayor, Mr. Sampson, who also was our judge, and held court wherever he happened to be. I have seen him hold court leaning against the front of Aug. Hay's meat market and sitting in the shade of the W. C. T. U.'s drinking fountain, which was in a little pavilion. Mr. Powers would lead his bum up to our mayor and the mayor, without any "oyez" or "court is now holden" would look at his watch and say that the next freight was due through at such and such a time. This was common procedure in those days in these parts and was known as "hours."

A bum got so many hours to leave town and if he didn't leave he was supposed to be charged with vagrancy and jailed up for a month. Even then it occurred to my acutely constituted mind that the station I doing was somehow irregular but I never thought it would happen to me and in the capital of my native land and by decree of the President of the republic of all people, but here I am in Detroit. Maybe this isn't far enough, maybe I better go to Canada.

F.D.R. Attack I didn't even know the President had any idea that I was in Washington until all of a sudden he remarked to his press conference that all parasites ought to leave town and that those ones "I didn't leave voluntarily could be made so uncomfortable that they would break up camp and go under indirect compulsion. He was in his own office when he said this but, in effect, he was leaning against Aug. Hay's market because he really has no right to do this. Even now I keep saying to myself, "Why, he can't do this to you; he can't give you hours to get out of Washington," but then I say, "The Hell he can't, brother; you are in Detroit, aren't you?"

Imagine! But he must have meant some other because he used the plural form and yet I seem to be the only one who took his remark personally. Down at the station I looked around, thinking I might see Mrs. Roosevelt's protégé, Mr. Joe Lash, that veteran and inveterate professional youth of 32 who is always in and out of the White House, but if he was on the lam I didn't make him. Probably he isn't because Mr. Lash, though not quite the type for a commission in the naval intelligence, is nevertheless something in something called Youth Advisory Council of Civilian Defense, which may be something whipped up special to employ his peculiar talents, whatever they may be. He was down there the other day because I saw him in Mrs. Roosevelt's column. I also looked for some of those milky old presidents emeritus of stylish girls' colleges who are always getting up youth conferences but all I could be positive about were some soldiers, who certainly weren't parasites, some rather obvious Detroit manufacturers, and a young FBI fellow who undoubtedly was going along to see that I didn't double back from Baltimore. You would have thought they would sacrifice at least one Communist press agent, just as a token, even if they let him come back next week, but no, tell you, I was the only one in town who caught the freight.

No Cash And I wasn't living on government money. I was on an expense account from my cherished employer and although I did have a pretty nice room to myself, with two beds, one, of course, unused, I wasn't making any inroads on the food supply because I eat virtually nothing on the road.

I was sorry about that unused bed but a man does have to be careful, and I am not being suggestive, either. Any man who has traveled with a ball club knows that in a blind draw you might get a roommate like the late Wild Bill Phelon, who kept lizards and used to hit by the window with a bag of mothballs shooting people with a sling-shot, or one who eats apples out loud in bed or one of those presidents emeritus or even Lash.

All right, I heard the President and I went, but what about old Charlie Michelson? Is he essential to the war effort?

ARK ROYAL HEARING.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Feb. 2.—The commander of the torpedoed aircraft carrier Ark Royal, Captain L. E. H. Maund, appeared today before a secret court-martial.

our allies fight in this world struggle for all that is true and decent in man's relationship to man and to God. We know the foes we face have sold themselves, for temporary, illusive gain, to the powers of evil.

I know these things, and having that deep, implanted faith in the power of a just God, we know the victory must be ours. Nothing can shake that faith. No matter what reverses our arms may suffer, no matter how great the sacrifice, how long and all-embracing the struggle, we must win in the end.

For our hearts tell us, in the words of a popular song, "There'll be bluebirds over the white cliffs of Dover tomorrow, just you wait and see."

And, in a finer and older quotation, we say, too:

For right is right, since God is God, And right the day must win; To doubt would be disloyalty, To falter would be sin.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE MARINES HAVE LANDED A day or so ago a couple of fellows of World War I vintage met on the street. One of them had his young son with him. The two men spoke of the war.

"Father," asked the son of his ex-Marine corps father, "was that man a Marine in the first war?"

"Son," said the father, "never ask a man that. In the first place, if he was a Marine he is sure to tell you so. In the second place, if he wasn't you don't want to embarrass him."

I thought of that yesterday when the Marines came to town and opened the southeastern recruiting offices in Atlanta, moving here from New Orleans.

There was a parade. One of the Marine Corps' bands from Parris Island came to town. The old ex-Marines got out and marched. Their old non-coms would have found some fault with their marching. There was not too much spring in their steps. But they marched. Even so, looking at them, I could see just the barest trace of a swagger in their steps. Their feet were hurting. Their breathing was in puffs. But there still was just the trace of a swagger. The Marines have that in their fighting. They are just a little more stylish.

The handful of Marines at Wake Island was stylish. They kept thumbing their noses at the Japanese empire until the end came. There came a day when the shadows of the wings of Japanese airplanes darkened the sky.

There was one Marine plane left. The pilot took it up to fight. That he was killed didn't matter. He had to take it up. The tradition of the corps made him take it up as a matter of course. He never questioned it.

You will find them feeling just a little superior to the Army and the Navy, backed up by a tradition older than the Constitution of the United States. There was a Marine corps in action defending this country before there was a United States of America. Joining the Marines is like joining a lodge.

And always the tradition calls for a bit of swank, a touch of style.

MARINE SONG—1942 MODEL It was just a coincidence, but in the mail yesterday on the day the Marines arrived, was a letter from Walter R. Barry, vice president of General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis, Minn. And an "old Marine."

He was sending along a song by a friend of his in another Minnesota city—Earl Bradley, of the famous Fifth Marines. Bradley and Barry had soldiered together in the Marines in 1917-18. It is as follows:

MARINE SONG—1942 MODEL

From the halls of Montezuma

To the sandy wastes of Wake,

We can take the best they have to give

And never ask a break.

And no matter what the odds may be,

We'll take 'em right in stride,

And show them how to finish things

They never should have tried.

We will show them there's no yellow

In the Red, White, and Blue,

And we'll knock the Japs in the Nazi's laps

Before this thing is through.

For we like it where the going's tough,

And we can take the rap,

If they just will keep our spirits up

"By sending us more Japs."

It will be recalled that the original song tells of how the Marines fought in Mexico, in Egypt, in Japan, in all the places of the world where fighting has been, and ends:

"If the Army and the Navy,

Ever look on Heaven's scenes,

They will find the streets are guarded,

By United States Marines."

Just a touch of the tradition. There is a ribald version of that finish which I cannot put down.

MEIGS FROST Moving the Marine Corps' recruiting offices to Atlanta means a very substantial gain for this city. It is a large office. It brings a number of splendid new officers and men to become residents of Atlanta.

One of these is a man I've long admired—Major Meigs Frost, until recently of the New Orleans States' staff.

Major Frost is one of the most popular men in southern newspaper circles. His reputation is national. He and Jim Crown, editor of the States, worked many long hours at fighting the corrupt and vicious Huey Long organization.

And, when the day came, it was Meigs Frost, out to track down a hot tip, who got the story and the pictures which were to start the collapse of the Long machine.

It came swiftly after his exposure of state materials being hauled to the house being built by a state employe and of those materials going into the building of the house.

Well, the Marines have landed. The United States' oldest military service, older than the Constitution of the United States, has opened its recruiting office here.

Atlanta will like them.

Many Heads Are Better Than One If All Are in Danger Of Coming Off

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The ordinary citizen, realizing that he is not qualified to help manage the war, is inclined to wash his hands of the whole affair and trust everything to the experts.

Dudley Glass

Week ago this column commented on a really old newspaper sent in by a friend. The Aberdeen Weekly Journal, of Scotland, 194 years old. The two issues sent me are dated last November.

I found so many items which interested me that I thought some of them might interest you—little pictures of war-time Scotland. So I'm lifting a few:

"The first of Aberdeen's seven war-time nurseries for children whose mothers are engaged in war work will be ready for use in about a month."

"Forridge and Milk" is the headline on a "special article." It says: "The new regulation as to milk has the fault of most rules of the kind that it is indiscriminate. There are households for which two pints of milk per week per adult will be more than plenty. It is now possible to get porridge and milk in an English hotel on Sunday as a matter of course. I once asked for porridge in an Edinburgh hotel and was told: 'We don't make them on Sunday.'"

"Mr. Jack Jones, former M.P. for Silvertown and famous for his wit, who has died at the age of 66, once told Lady Astor: 'I am a better man drunk than you are sober.' In his maiden speech he addressed when the speaker called him to order he said, 'I'm sorry; it is obvious that the speaker knows the members better than I do.'"

"Over 300,000 oranges are available for distribution to children in Aberdeen, Aberdeenshire, Kincardine, Banffshire, Morayshire and Orkney and Shetland this week."

"During this week retailers must distribute them only for children who have children's ration books."

"If there are any left after the end of the week, they can be sold to the general public, but the retailers are asked even then to give preference to children of all ages."

Aberdeen A.R.P. workers who have undertaken to look after domestic pets in the event of a blitz had a cat and dog-catching trial on Sunday at the Home for Cats and Dogs, Seaton.

"Mr. D. Cumming, regional veterinary officer for the scheme,

What's Going On In Scotland, Where There's a War On

gave a talk on how to approach the animals before demonstrating the actual catching. His 'pupils' then made attempts on their own."

Little But Hustling

Business people who are real business people overlook no bet. Courtesy costs nothing but a little time and a postage stamp.

So I'm printing the correspondence between a boy publisher and Joel C. (Jackie) Harris. It tells its own story:

Vidette, Ga., Jan. 28, 1942.

Kelly-Smith Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sirs: I am a 14-year-old high-school freshman boy. I am the editor-owner and publisher of the Vidette Weekly News. I saw your name in The Atlanta Constitution so I decided to write you and see if your company could secure advertising for me. My paper has a small circulation, only a little over 250, and my rate is small so, just 25 cents per 3 column inches, 10 cents for one, (2 1/2-inch columns), size of paper not less than eight pages, 5 1/2 by 7 1/2 inches. Paper rate is 35 cents per three months by mail. Hoping that you will give this small matter serious attention, and answer soon, I remain,

Yours truly,

(Signed) VIRGIL PRICE.

January 29, 1942.

Mr. Virgil Price, Box 34, Vidette, Ga.

Dear Virgil: I have your letter of January 28th addressed to the Kelly-Smith Company.

You suggested that we might be able to represent your paper and there isn't anything that I would like better. But it is impossible because our work in the business of representation is restricted to daily newspapers of large circulation.

I do appreciate, and I know my boss—Mr. Miller—in New York will also, your offering us the opportunity to work for you. He will be just as sorry as I am that we cannot change the policy of our company.

I'll bet you are a swell person, Virgil. And I think you always will be unless you get sidetracked by what you might mistakenly feel is the power of your own press.

I am enclosing my check for 35 cents for a three months' subscription for your paper.

Sincerely yours,

JOEL C. HARRIS.

SUCCESSFUL FARMING COSTLY UNDERTAKING

Editor, Constitution: All the new wealth that is created comes from the earth, the air and the ocean. The farmers have created a large portion of this new wealth but they never received any of it for themselves, generally speaking. Farming is one of the most expensive occupations I know of. Most every person that is capacitated to do anything else leaves the farm if he can possibly get any other kind of employment. Why is this true? Because he is forced to buy so many more essentials that he would have to buy working for wages or salary or in some other kind of business. Some of the extras that he has to buy on a farm that he doesn't have to buy doing other work are as follows: Mules, wagons, plow shoes, plow points, plow gear and all other farm machinery too numerous to mention. And the prices he has to pay for these articles are so much higher than the price he receives for his farm product in comparison.

When a person leaves the farm and gets a job in the city, he comes home about August on a vacation driving a good car and dressed "to kill." This will apply to both races. Then, why stay on the farm? So, his country cousins see him and they get the going-away fever. Who wouldn't? Unless the farmer can receive as much for his farm product in comparison with what he has to pay for his supplies when they all get an education they all will leave the farm, and every man will have to cultivate him a small plot of land to exist.

Show me a farmer that has made a financial success on his farm and I will show you one (49 times out of 50) that receives income from some other resource or enterprise. When it looks like the farmers will receive a fair price for their product, then the cry is "inflation." From time immemorial the farmer has never received a parity price for his product. It has ever been true. I know of no remedy except rigid organization.

Of course there have been improvements under President Roosevelt leadership but there is a long way to go.

O. H. ADKINS.

PROTESTS SUGGESTION OF CRIMINALS IN ARMY

Editor, Constitution: I read an article stating that Governor Tamm had granted a pardon to a man convicted of armed robbery and another convicted of automobile theft, both conditional in that they were to be accepted for service in the armed forces of the country.

Since adequate words to express my feelings regarding the shameful pardon racket we have know would be unprintable, I'll skip that, but I would like to know SPRING AHEAD—Cold winds whipped around the campus of Agnes Scott College yesterday as temperature hovered way down yonder, but it didn't deter students from thinking about spring. So they elected Anne Chambliss, a senior, as queen, to reign over the traditional May Day pageant. Miss Chambliss is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Chambliss, of 447 East Ontario avenue, S. W.

just what our Governor thinks our armed forces are? Doesn't he know that in spite of every precaution on the part of enlistment officers, actual criminals sometimes get into the service as well as do many young men who are peculiarly responsive to a little coaxing once they are away from home influence? Does he presume it to be perfectly all right for the armed forces to accept for enlistment known criminals so that your son or mine will of necessity have to know their association? It is my opinion that the younger people of today have enough to do as it is to stay out of trouble even with the environment of the home and their companionship of their own choosing.

Too many of us remember the humiliation we felt over the acts of rape, murder, robbery, etc., committed after the Armistice by deserters and escapees of the last A. E. F. in France, conduct so reprehensible as to make for common gossip among those of us officers with the Advance Section Services or Supply, the gist of a letter from Major General Harbord to General Pershing which recommended the earliest withdrawal of A. E. F. troops from France to safeguard the general feeling of good friendship then existing toward our forces.

I have spent too much time recently urging young men to join the services, thereby affording themselves the opportunity not only to serve their country, but with definite application on their part, to build stronger their character and broaden their entire perspective, to make it easy for them to continue to hesitate with the excuse they don't want to be associated with criminals.

If I know my Army, I believe it can be safely assumed that given the facts, these two men will be refused at any recruiting station for any of the services.

Dorothy Thompson Regrets:

U. S. Unable To Produce Copy of Hitler Talk

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

It was my desire to comment on Hitler's speech delivered in Berlin Friday, from 10 to 12 a. m., American eastern standard time.

Obvious this speech is of the greatest importance in revealing what Hitler thought it worth while to tell the German people and the world. It is the first he has delivered since October 2—the first he has made since the reverses in Russia, and the entrance of the United States into the war.

It is also his first speech since the shakeup among the generals and the dismissal of Brauchitsch.

Time and again this column has received enlightenment from careful study of Hitler's speeches, constantly asking: "Why does he say just that, and why does he fail to mention this or that?"

Important Speeches.

We have very little news from Germany and we have to analyze every scrap of authentic information. Hitler's speeches are immensely important—not because he tells the truth, but because he is always responsive to the feelings in the German nation. He never makes a policy to fit his propaganda, but a propaganda to fit the situation. So, from his speeches one can see whether he is lacking right or left, whether he is playing to conservatives or radicals; whether the German nation is enthusiastic or depressed.

And all his speeches reveal the line of propaganda for his agents throughout the world.

Now we are at war and that war must be waged not only at the front but in the political and psychological sphere. Hitler is a master of this form of warfare.

An immense staff of expert workers, with pedantic thoroughness and perfect timing, assist him to know all about his enemies.

Not an editorial adverse to the policy or personality of Roosevelt but finds its way to the point where it can be used. (And how effectively used we have seen in the United States.) For Hitler studies the internal political and social structure of the countries of his enemies, and looks for the weak points to make his breakthroughs.

The moment war was declared, it seemed obvious that we would launch a brilliant psychological warfare. The American press, and especially those members of it who had spent years following most carefully the developments in Germany, studying the inner structure of the Nazi party, and the divergencies in policy between the various tendencies in the movement and the nation would be able to contribute, in a coordinated way, to turning Hitler's weapons back upon himself.

Since I have studied Hitler for nearly 20 years, I should like now to have contributed to the understanding of his situation now.

But I cannot comment on the Hitler speech, for I cannot find out what he said. Fantastic as it may seem, there is not, in the entire city of New York a complete German or translated transcript of this speech. And editorials have been written and comments made on what the writer thinks he said—and sometimes on what he did not say.

Versions Misleading.

The broadcasting companies took down the "highlights," by rapid translators at listening posts. It is absolutely impossible to do this accurately. Mrs. McCormick, in the Times, presumably commented on the CBS version—a version that I received myself. In that version a startling statement appeared: "President Roosevelt will be spoken of as the creator of the greatest empire"—which Mrs. McCormick noted. I doubted that statement and so went to CBS and had the Ediphone recording (very difficult for anyone not entirely expert to follow) played back. Hitler never said anything of the sort.

The AP carried the transoceanic version, the one put out by the German government. In every case where I have checked, these versions have been mistranslated, elliptical and misleading. Even from what I know of the speech from checkedback versions from the broadcasting companies.

Reuters—the British Service—carried by The New York Times—brought 30 minutes out of a speech that took one hour and fifty-three minutes.

Tass, the Russian agency, had only the broadcasting company's inaccurate highlights.

We have a co-ordinator of information, with New York offices, from which emanate broadcasts for our political warfare on Germany and elsewhere.

The co-ordinator of information had no complete text, by Saturday noon.

"Weren't Interested." The Mutual Shortwave Broadcasting room "didn't think we recorded the speech—weren't particularly interested."

There is a copy in the country. The FCC in Washington say they have it. The co-ordinator of information more than 24 hours after the speech was delivered, hopes to get it. And if and when I get it, I will try to analyze it and not until then.

But things simply cannot go on like this. We are fighting two enemies who understand organization and timing, and for whom the smallest detail is important. And we are disorganized, unintegrated, lackadaisical, and operating on guesswork. We think it is not important to be thorough, and to know things exactly, and to use them with the most penetrating intelligence. This is a little incident, but it's exactly like Pearl Harbor.

Good Morning

"GOTT UND VOLK."

A book intended to provide a clear outline of Nazi religion has for its title, "Gott und Volk." Two hundred thousand copies had been printed and distributed at the end of 1941, and the publishers have been ordered to print up to 1,000,000 copies at once. Thus far the book has been reserved for distribution to the young men, principally those in the Army and Navy and labor camps. After the young men have been supplied with the manual, it will then be made available to the girls and young women. Hitler is not bothering with the older people.

Perhaps you would be interested in some quotations from this book: "We Germans have been called upon by fate to be the first to break with Christianity. It is to be an honor. A thousand bonds tie us to the Christian belief, but one blow will make us free. To make Germans strong and ripe for this step is our task of holiest obligation."

"When a fight for the souls of Germans is going on, there are fronts. The fronts are clear. One is called Christianity and the other is Germany. There is no third. There is also no compromise."

"Every epoch has its sign. Two epochs and signs oppose each other today—the Cross and the Sword. The sword is the weapon of the fighter. The sufferer drags the cross. We are on the offensive. The front of the cross has a strong and weak wing. The strong is Catholic. The weak is Protestant. We are fighting against both."

"We do not want to tear down cathedrals. We want to fill them with a new spirit. We want to declare a new faith in them. . . . The tortured, pain-torn figure of the crucified Christ will disappear. Our heroes must again carry swords in their fists instead of a cross on their backs."

"We will receive the newly-born into the community of the nation, not as Catholics, not as Protestants, but as Germans. In the future there will be only a German consecration of marriage."

"Take the Bible and burn it in consecrated places."

"The age of Christian civilization is past. Only German civilization has anything to say. We are German. Therefore, we cannot be Christians. The German, at present, has two obligations, earthly and heavenly. As long as he has two masters, the Fuehrer and the Christ, he will not find his way to Eternity."

"Every day, every hour, is lost which your youth spend in church. We want to educate them to tear the faith of Christianity out of their hearts; only Germany has a place there. How do we want to educate our children? As though they never heard of Christianity?"

"And what shall we say to that? May I suggest these words of Jesus: 'And this is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ Whom Thou hast sent.' Selah."

Actress Nancy Kelly

Is Granted Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Nancy Kelly, 20-year-old Titian-haired screen actress, won a divorce today from Actor Edmund C'Brien.

Four months after they eloped to Yuma, Ariz., February 19, 1941, Miss Kelly testified they separated, later effected a reconciliation and subsequently became completely estranged, after he left for New York last Christmas Eve.

Miss Kelly, who was born at Lowell, Mass., waived alimony. O'Brien did not contest the divorce.

Henderson, Wickard In Agreement On Food Prices

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard and Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared tonight they were in "complete agreement" on food and farm product prices, and would take "effective, positive steps to stabilize the cost of living." In a joint statement, the two officials also said supplies of most staple foods were at record or at near-record levels, and "there is no occasion for hoarding of food."

C.H. Murchison To Head OCD Regional Office

Post Was Filled Temporarily by Bernard F. Dickman.

C. H. Murchison, Jacksonville attorney serving as counsel for the Florida RFC, was named yesterday as director of the fourth region of the National Office of Civilian Defense, with headquarters in Atlanta.

The office, part of the national organization headed by Mayor LaGuardia of New York and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been filled temporarily by Bernard F. Dickman, inspector-general.

The new director is a native of South Carolina. He is expected to assume duties here today.

The region embraces Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Carolinas and Tennessee. From it stems the State Defense Committee which ramifies into Georgia district, county and local defense groups.

The price control bill gave the agriculture secretary a veto power over price ceilings on farm products. Farm-minded legislators wrote in this provision in belief Wickard would favor higher farm prices than would Henderson, who was formally nominated today to be price administrator.

"Around Parity." However, Wickard told members of the senate agriculture committee Saturday that he intended to keep farm prices "around parity," rather than let them rise to the higher levels permitted in the price control bill. That testimony was received shortly by a number of committee members.

The Wickard-Henderson statement pledged the Office of Price Administration and the Department of Agriculture to pool their resources and spare no effort to prevent inflation.

On the point of how this could be done, they said: "First of all, we must have abundant production, and the Department of Agriculture intends to see that every possible step is taken to insure abundant supplies for all. This has been and will remain the consumers' best assurance of fair prices."

Draw on Reserve. "Government-owned stocks of grains and cotton will continue to be used to supplement private stocks. Farm legislation and the farm production goals for 1942 have now placed floors under the farm prices of all major products at levels sufficient to protect farmers in carrying out a great increase in production."

"Steps will be taken to keep feedstuffs at reasonable levels in order that increased production of meats and livestock products will not be hampered by high feed costs. The OPA will use its power to see that prices of the things that farmers buy are held down, so that farm production will not be restricted by unnecessarily high production costs."

"A high level of production will not in all cases be sufficient. Where prices get out of line, the OPA, with the advice and assistance of the department, will establish maximum prices. In such cases, it will see that this protection is afforded all the way through the channels of distribution to the ultimate consumers. It is those where there is not enough to go around, steps will be taken to assure that there is fair distribution to all."

Bankhead Says Cotton Drop Unjustified

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, told the senate today he did not believe there was any justification for a recent decline of about $5 a bale in the price of cotton.

The Alabama senator said he believed the decline had come about because of "statements and intimations" that cotton belonging to the Commodity Credit Corporation was to be placed on the market.

There seemed to be a difference of understanding about the intent of congress on this score, he said, citing statutes which would prevent the corporation from selling more than 300,000 bales a month of the 4,000,000 bales of cotton it now holds.

He said it was his understanding that this cotton would not be sold except at a price that would yield sufficient funds to reimburse the government for all amounts, including price-adjustment payments, paid out by its agencies on the cotton sold.

U. S. To Encourage Peanut Crop Boost

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Chairman Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, of the House Agriculture Committee, said today the Agriculture Department had assured him it would amend rules of the soil conservation program to encourage southern farmers to plant more peanuts this year.

The department is calling for a three-fold expansion of the 1942 peanut crop in an effort to produce more vegetable oil to offset shortages caused by the war.

Fulmer said the Agriculture Department also would make arrangements to furnish peanut seed at the lowest price possible and payable out of the 1942 crop.

PLANE BUILDERS—The government has asked for half a million model planes and here are three youngsters at O'Keefe Junior High school eager to turn them out. Left to right they are Jimmy Taylor, Peggy Roohan and Llewellyn Fickes, students in the model plane building classes O'Keefe has been teaching for several years. The models are used by the Army to train fliers and teach civilians to identify enemy aircraft.

O'Keefe Class Ready To Build Model Planes

Junior High Boys, Girls Await Orders From Aeronautics Bureau.

The Bureau of Aeronautics has issued a call for 500,000 model airplanes, and O'Keefe Junior High school has already out in an offer to supply a large quota. O'Keefe is ready to go as soon as specifications are received.

For O'Keefe three years ago established the first course in this section in model plane building and now has a class of 40 boys engaged in learning to make even the more intricate models. Graduates of this class are already flying bombers, working as designers, and piloting commercial planes.

The Bureau of Aeronautics wants models for several purposes. It wants them for training ground crews and students. It wants models of enemy aircraft, so spotters and civilian groups may recognize them. It also wants to enlarge the reservoir of young aviation enthusiasts who will know the ground work of aviation when they grow older.

The O'Keefe model class is taught by T. P. Fiske, who started the class and has sponsored model building through various clubs for the past 19 years. His pupils learn how to build scale models, planes propelled by rubber bands and gas models that really fly mechanically.

Among graduates of his course are Frankton Ellis, now with Curtiss-Wright in Chicago; Albion Cowles, now training as a pilot in the Air Corps; Robert Walters, pilot with Eastern Air Lines; Harold Ewing, flight instructor at Candler Field, and many others.

Alien Registration To Start Monday

Registration for identification of aliens of German, Italian or Japanese nationality, 14 years of age or older, will be started in Georgia Monday.

Officials announced yesterday that all must apply at the post office nearest to their homes before February 28. Three unmounted photographs, two inches by two inches, showing the individual's front facial view, without hat, as well as his alien registration receipt card, must be presented.

City Tax Books Open For Current Returns

City tax assessors yesterday announced the opening of books for 1942 returns. The 1942 city tax rate remains at 16 mills, or $1.60 per $100 of assessed valuation. The books remain open until March 15, after which a penalty will be assessed against those who fail to file within the required period.

One of the most dramatic plays of all time becomes the most exciting picture you've ever seen!

Rich in its lashing action... set against the lurid background of Shanghai, the City of Sin. Rich in its story... of an iron-willed woman who gambled with the souls of men as if they were chips in a game of chance! Here is dramatic entertainment! Don't miss it!

By PRESS HUDDLETON.

Standard Accident Insurance Company

The board of directors of the company were re-elected and two new directors were added to the board.

The board of directors declared dividend No. 27 of $2.12 cents per share to be paid on March 5,

1942, to common stockholders of record as of the close of business

February 23, 1942.

According to the report to the stockholders presented by Charles

C. Bowen, president, the company's premium volume in the year

1941 was $17,740,408, a 20.3 per cent increase in comparison with 1940 writings. Underwriting gain, or insurance profit, amounted to $908,093. The combined gain under underwriting and net investment earned income after provision for federal income taxes and personal property taxes not reported at $1,003,032 in 1941

amounted to $1,911,124, or 10.8

per cent of the premium volume of $17,740,408. Common stock dividends of $439,854 were paid during 1941.

RADIO PRODUCTION

The weekly summary of the radio industry, compiled by the Office of Emergency Management in Washington and sent out here by Marvin Cox, regional information officer, contains the following item of particular interest:

"Preparation for conversion is under way in the order cutting production of radio receiving sets for civilian use during the next 90 days by more than 40 per cent below the monthly output during the nine months ended September

1941. Manufacturers who sold more than $1,000,000 of radio sets and phonographs for civilian requirements during the nine-month period are ordered to reduce output of both by 45 per cent. Those whose sales were under $1,000,000 must cut production 35 per cent.

"The radio industry is to undertake a two-billion-dollar military production program, and the civilian radio industry is to make the possible. In addition to freeing facilities for war work, the cuts imposed will accomplish savings during the 90-day period of an estimated 750 tons of copper, 100 tons of nickel, 25 tons of zinc and 3,400 tons of steel."

INSURANCE INCREASE

The annual meetings of the stockholders and directors of the company were held in New York

City, N. Y., on Feb. 2, 1942.

The board of directors of the

"REMEMBER WAKE ISLAND"—Blue-coated Marines swung up Peachtree street yesterday morning on parade in memory of the valiant defenders of Wake Island and in celebrating removal of southern recruiting division headquarters from New Orleans to Atlanta. Crowds shivered in the wintry winds to cheer them on as they marched behind the colors to the stirring music of the Marine Regimental Band from Parris Island, S. C. Theirs was the first parade of the current war in Atlanta. It met with an enthusiastic response from all.

Atlanta 'Captured' by Marines In 'Wake Island' Parade Here

Shivering Crowds Line Sidewalks To Cheer; March Celebrates Establishment of Southern Recruiting Headquarters in City.

The U. S. Marines "captured" Peachtree street yesterday as their "Remember Wake Island" parade, celebrating removal of southern recruiting headquarters from New Orleans back to Atlanta after an absence of 26 years, braved the cold and sent their stirring song, "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli," echoing through the canyon of office buildings.

Shivering crowds lined the sidewalks to cheer Lieutenant Colonel A. B. Miller, officer in charge of the southern recruiting division, and his men and the Parris Island Marine regimental band as they marched.

The Marine band presented a free concert last night at the municipal auditorium, with a large part of its program broadcast on a national radio chain. Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution and a former Marine, was master of ceremonies, while civic leaders made short addresses.

The United States flag and the colors of the Marines fluttered in the stiff wind as the "Remember Wake Island" parade got under way at Peachtree and Baker streets and marched through the heart of Atlanta to the Atlanta National building, at Whitehall and Alabama, where the southern recruiting division's new headquarters will be located on the eleventh floor.

Atlanta officials—Mayor LeCraw, Chief M. A. Hornsby, Fire Chief C. C. Styron, Sheriff J. M. Mount, a number of city councilmen, Commander Jesse Draper and Captain J. V. Babcock—headed the group welcoming the return of the Marines. Southern headquarters were located here once, but were moved to New Orleans 26 years ago.

Like Coming Home. Marine College's Band and military units, the color guard of Georgia Tech, Commercial High school's red-and-white-clad drum majorettes, and the American Legion Post No. 1 drum and bugle corps, led by Majorette Alta Marie Giddens, followed the Marine Band in the quick-stepping parade. Watchers saw also the Marines' mobile recruiting bureau bringing up the rear.

The marchers dispersed at the entrance to the Atlanta National building, where Colonel Miller and his staff began operations yesterday morning.

It was like coming home again to Major Meigs O. Frost, the division's public relation officer, who is a famous newspaperman formerly with the New Orleans Times-Picayune and author of more than 300 short fiction stories and articles. Major Frost said he first came here for the national Shriners convention in 1914 and later to cover sports events between Georgia Tech and Tulane.

Major R. S. Pendleton, who is in charge of the recruiting office, was present also.

Marine Band Concert. A concert last night at the city auditorium by the United States Marine Corps band from Parris Island, during which eight recruits were sworn in service by Major Pendleton, climaxed the transfer of the southern recruiting headquarters from New Orleans to Atlanta.

The band is regarded as the finest regimental organization in the Marine Corps. Short talks were made by Mayor LeCraw, Lieutenant Colonel A. B. Miller, head of the southern recruiting division; Major Meigs O. Frost, head of the southern division public relations; Commander Jesse Draper, executive editor of The Constitution, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Part of the program was broadcast over the blue network of NBC through WAGA. Sergeant Walt West, head of public relations for the Macon district, was in charge.

Majorette Exhibition. Commercial High drum majorettes, led by Laura Woodall, gave an exhibition. Other majorettes were Mary Warren, Nevada Simpson, Evelyn Dickson and Joy Cobb. They were made "honorary Marines" by Colonel Miller.

The eight men sworn in were Richard Anderson, Route 8, Bolton road; Charles J. Palmer, of 1588 Pine View terrace, S. W.; Seaborn Winfred Christopher, of 638 Narrows avenue; Robert E. Allen, of 1912 Hallman street, S. E.; Robert Little, of Summerville; Garland Johnson, of Trion; James E. Rigdon Jr., of Fitzgerald; and George Pappas, of Detroit, Mich.

Tugwell Removal Asked By Puerto Rico Official

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Bolívar Pagan, resident commissioner of Puerto Rico, today demanded the removal of Rexford Guy Tugwell, governor of the island, as "indispensable" to the restoration of tranquility and peace there.

He charged that Tugwell, former undersecretary of agriculture of the United States, was still holding his $10,000 job as governor and a $15,000 post as president of the island's university. Tugwell, he contended, only "simulated a resignation of the university job."

Rev. Charles E. Powell

Is Dead in Kentucky LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Powell, 73, evangelist and a Christian church pastor in seven states, died today after a long illness.

A native of Lincoln county, he was educated at Centre, Transylvania and the College of the Bible and had held pastorates in several Kentucky cities and in Birmingham, Ala., and Roanoke, Va. In addition, Mr. Powell had done evangelistic work in Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and Alabama.

Reporter Frost, Now a Marine, Gives Son Oath

Major Stationed Here With New Recruiting Office.

One of the south's crack reporters joined up his typewriter for the duration when Meigs O. Frost, of the New Orleans States, a few months ago donned the uniform of a major in the Marines.

Major Frost, who arrived in Atlanta yesterday to take up his duties with the new Marine recruiting office here was one of the best known newspapermen in the New Orleans area.

He was, in addition, known to thousands through his magazine stories and his books.

And all the vim he put into his reporting, even though he had reached the age when most reporters' legs begin to tire, he now is putting into his recruiting for the Marines.

Any able-bodied male old enough to shave and young enough to still feel a little vigor in his muscles is grist for his recruiting mill—not even sparing members of his own family.

For just yesterday Major Frost had the pleasure of giving the oath of office to his son, Burgess Murray Frost, 30 years old and married, but in the eyes of his papa, "just right to make a cracker-jack private."

Major Frost will be connected with the new recruiting office here, under command of Lieutenant Colonel A. B. Miller.

Work To Bring Victory, Says Power Official

Rotarians Hear Mitchell Stress Importance of Production.

Vital importance of production and more production, longer hours and harder work in the defense program was stressed yesterday before the Rotary Club by W. E. Mitchell, vice president of the Georgia Power Company.

Mitchell dwelt upon the tremendous efforts his company is making to keep providing electricity for Georgia's industries and domestic consumers.

"That drought of last year—the worst in 40 years—came just when we were called upon for vastly increased current supply to industries. We could have licked either one—but the two together nearly got us down. But they didn't—except for a brief curtailment of service," he said.

The many millions invested in hydroelectric and steam electric plants, the vast sums for upkeep and operation, the necessity for seeing far ahead, were pointed out.

"We can't build a great plant in a few weeks," he said. "It takes years. Yet some of the political columnists have criticized utilities and industries for not seeing further ahead than congress, the Army or the Navy."

"The question comes back: 'What can I do?'"

"What are we doing? We are not fighting a defense war on short interior lines. We are fighting on the beach heads of the world. The time there are no friendly ports to welcome our troops and the French are not there to supply our troops with their famous 75's. We must arm not only ourselves, but our allies. What we need we must make and make it fast. It means a troublesome change in our way of life. It means not only production but a revolution in what we produce."

"Save electricity. I mean just that. Save it. Don't waste it. Our experts will show you ways. 'President Arkwright has remarked: 'If we deserve to survive we shall survive.' I think that sums it up."

Seven Seek Posts In College Park

City Clerk G. B. Lindsey, of College Park, yesterday announced seven candidates have qualified thus far to run for mayor and two council posts in the city election to be held March 2. Lindsey added that 14 more days remain for others to qualify.

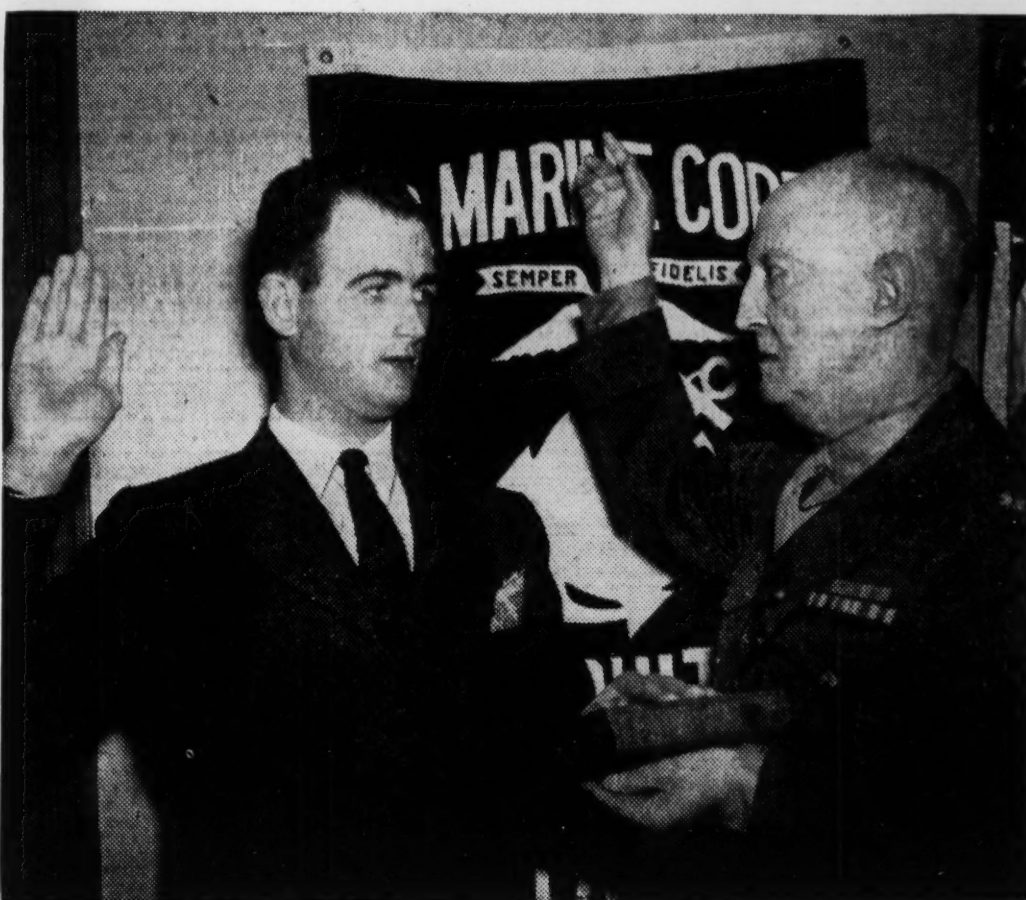

Stokely Northcutt and Wallace Sittion have announced for mayor to fill the unexpired term of the late George W. Harris. Sittion resigned as first ward councilman to make the race. Four men have announced as his successor, Lenville Parker, J. W. Stephenson, Hill Hammock and I. C. Jones. J. D. Bazemore has announced for the other first ward council post, vacated by the recent resignation of Harry Looney.

Tuxedo Hunt Club Juniors To Give Valentine Tea-Dance

By SALLY FORTH.

... THOUGH JUNIOR MEMBERS of the Tuxedo Hunt Club spend most of their leisure hours working for national defense these days, they plan to take time out next Saturday for a little fun. For at the meeting held last Saturday they decided to give a Valentine tea-dance at the clubhouse in Tuxedo Park, the affair to assemble 75 members of the sub-deb contingent between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Officers of the junior group and their dates will receive the guests, headed by Winifred Shackleford, president. Other officers include Anne Arkwright, vice president; Cecile Maddox, secretary, and Sam McConnell, treasurer. Cecile's election to the secretaryship featured the meeting Saturday, the former secretary, Marilyn McClung, having resigned.

Mothers of the officers, Mrs. Robert F. Maddox Jr., Mrs. Bernard L. Shackleford, Mrs. Evan McConnell and Mrs. Preston Arkwright Jr., will chaperon the tea-dance.

Knitting needles flew thick and fast at the meeting Saturday, for the feminine members of the junior club have taken up Red Cross knitting in earnest. The business session was followed by luncheon at the club, with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Parker, who have recently moved to Atlanta from Indiana, as special guests.

... THE numerous friends of Mrs. Wesley Espy, the former Catherine Hook, of Atlanta, will be keenly interested in learning that she has just been made executive secretary of the Greenville (S. C.) Chapter of the American Red Cross, a position for which she is ably fitted.

Blond and lovely, Catherine was one of Atlanta's most popular belles, and was noted throughout the south for her beauty and charm. Following her marriage to the late Wesley Espy, she made her home in Savannah for a number of years, and for the past six months she has resided in Bennettsville, S. C., where she was executive secretary for the tuberculosis associations of Marlboro and Dillon counties.

In recent years, Catherine's visits back home have been all too infrequent. As a consequence, any news of her, even though not by personal contact, always finds a warmly receptive audience.

Catherine will go immediately to Washington, D. C., where she will take a month's training course at the National American Red Cross headquarters before taking up her active duties in Greenville. She is particularly well qualified for her work for the reason that she has had special training in the field of social service work.

After she completed her high school studies at Washington Seminary, Catherine attended the Scudder School of Social Service Work in New York and also the School of Social Service Work at the University of South Carolina. Too, she has had active experience as head of the children's department of the Henry Street Settlement in New York, besides her work with the tuberculosis associations.

The Red Cross is the source of aid and comfort for Sailors, Marines, Coast Guardsmen, and Soldiers and their families. It helps quietly, efficiently, sympathetically in the name of all America. Give to the Red Cross war relief campaign today.

... "CONGRATULATIONS" will soon be in order for one of this city's most popular couples, the marriage to be an interesting event of the not-too-distant future.

The bride-elect is dainty and blond—and looks like a dream in blue. She has legions of friends. Incidentally, once before she planned to be married—but exercised a woman's unalterable privilege, and changed her mind.

This time it's the "real thing," however, and the future groom, who is stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., has already selected the engagement ring which will seal their betrothal.

Can you identify the pair?

... HAVE YOU HEARD?...

That Judy King and Mary Hurd Hillier are taking private flying lessons down at Sea Island? ... That Mrs. G. Arthur Howell, Mrs. James L. Dickey and Mrs. Dan MacDougald have opened a snack bar at the British War Relief office here? ... That Jake Moses, whose wife is the former Margaret Palmer, is with the AEF in Ireland? ... And that it is rumored that Margaret will come to Atlanta for the duration? ... That Evelyn and Tom Daniel have returned from the Daniel plantation in south Georgia? ... That Irving Gresham Jr. and Jackson Dick Jr., who volunteered for the ground crew of the Army Air Corps, were assigned to K. P. duty their first day in camp? ... That pretty blond Dorothy Ramspeck, who was at Pearl Harbor when the Japs made their attack, is en route across the United States to join her parents, Congressman and Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, in Washington? ... That Mimi Pappenheimer has embarked upon a business career? ... That Karen Norris and LaRue Mizell have the same birthday, which they observed last Tuesday? ... Mrs. Haas To Talk To Junior League

The Atlanta Junior League, which meets this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club, will have as guest speaker Mrs. Leonard Haas. Mrs. Haas will discuss civilian defense and the functions of the government agencies pertaining to defense, also the importance of continuing community work during the war period.

Mrs. Edwin McCarty, president of the League, announces the appointment of Mrs. Joseph Cooper Jr., and Mrs. Alexander Yearly to the nominating committee. The other three members of the committee will be elected this afternoon. Reports on the completion of the provisional course which was conducted by Miss Ernestine McGill will be given and other important committee announcements will be made at the meeting.

Open House Held For Service Men.

The College Park Woman's Club will meet Wednesday at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Charles Daniel, president, presiding. Mrs. W. S. Cantrell, program chairman, announces that Mrs. C. R. McQuown, first vice president of the American Legion Auxiliary, will speak and Mrs. R. H. Weant will sing, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Wall.

Under Mrs. Daniel's leadership the club is making splendid contributions to both the Red Cross and Civilian Defense. A special feature of this program is the open house for the service men at the clubhouse on every Sunday afternoon, with Mrs. J. B. Smith as hostess.

Phillips-Bruce.

Of interest to their friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Jeanette Phillips, of Lawrenceville, to George M. Bruce, of Atlanta, which took place on December 18, 1941.

Peachtree Garden Club Plans Beautification of Center

The January meeting of the Peachtree Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Sisson on Eleventh street, with Mrs. Arthur Harris, the president, presiding.

Mrs. Frank Neely told of the progress and plans made for beautification of the Red Cross Recreation Center at Lawson General hospital, being undertaken by the club at the request of the Garden Club of America. Henry Toombs has drawn the plans, which call for croquet courts, rock and grass terraces and shrubbery.

The Affiliated Garden Clubs of New Orleans extend invitation to the club to participate in the spring fiesta flower show in March, the proceeds to be given for war relief. Mrs. Arthur Tufts reported on the progress of Fernbank and the interest taken by the schools in planting five acres of defense gardens.

The flower show chairman, Mrs. Virgil Shutze, announced the plans for the tulip show to be held in April. Mrs. Roby Robinson read Mrs. Thomas Erwin's horticultural report, stressing the need to grow vegetables and fruits for home consumption, and specifying the best varieties.

Mrs. James Henderson explained judging school lectures to be given under the auspices of the Atlanta Flower Show Association, the proceeds going to the Red Cross. Mrs. English Robinson's arrangement was on horizontal lines. Mrs. William Minnich showed vertical arrangement of red camellias. Mrs. Edgar Paulin had a triangular arrangement of white flower-

Air Corps Members Are Complimented.

Members of the Air Corps stationed at the base at Candler Field were honored Sunday evening at an informal and buffet supper planned and sponsored by Mrs. M. G. Pepper.

On the program were Miss Jeanette Johnson and Edward Armstrong, soloists, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Lowrance, accompanists. Miss Virginia Howard played, and folk dances were given by Misses Jane Kiser, Nancy Lochridge and Martha Branch. The affair was held in the recreation center.

Yaarab Temple To Hold Ball Honoring Potentate Wilson

The social activities for Yaarab Temple for 1942 will be officially inaugurated with the annual potentate's ball which takes place next Friday evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club, complimenting the newly elected Potentate Charles E. Wilson, his divan and the nobility and their ladies.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and the reception committee will be assisted by the elective divan and ladies, who will constitute the receiving line. The entertainment committee will present some interesting features, which will be followed by a buffet supper.

Valentine Candies for the Boys in Camp

By Sally Saver.

When February shows up on the calendar we're into a month that has three holidays full of sentiment for Americans: Lincoln's birthday, February 12; St. Valentine's Day, February 14, and Washington's birthday, February 22. Though St. Valentine's Day doesn't come first, it's the one we'll take about first because with lots of beaux in the service we'll be wanting to send a box of sweets to express our sentiments of the day, and will want to send the box early enough to arrive in time. You do not have to be an expert to make these toothsome triumphs, and you don't have to dig deeply into the restricted sugar supply, because the sweets are easily made with little or no sugar.

2-3 cup sweetened condensed milk
3 cups (1-2 pound) shredded coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla (optional)
 Mix milk and coconut. Add vanilla, if desired. Drop by spoonful on greased baking sheet, about 1 inch apart. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 10 minutes, or until a delicate brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 30.

1 cup flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1-4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1-3 cup peanut butter
1-4 cup irradiated evaporated milk
1 package dates
 Sift flour, then measure. Sift again with sugar and salt. Cream shortening and peanut butter together. Work quickly but thoroughly into flour with fingers or dough blender. Add milk all at once and stir quickly with a fork. Roll out on floured board to about 1-8 inch thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter, and on each round place a stoned date. Fold edges over date and pinch edges securely together. Bake on ungreased sheet in hot oven, about 10 minutes. Makes about three dozen.

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
Dash of salt
1-2 cup chopped nut meats
24 walnut or pecan halves (optional)
 Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add milk and stir over boiling water five minutes or until mixture thickens. Add bread crumbs, salt and nut meats. Mix well. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet, press half a nut meat into each cookie and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 10 minutes. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 24.

Questions about foods, recipes, cooking and serving will be answered by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution, or WA. 6565.

Let a box of sweets express your sentiments to your man in the service on St. Valentine's Day.

MY DAY: Medical Care For Rejected Drafttees

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sunday.—It was very pleasant yesterday morning to see Ambassador Daniels smiling face greeting us at the station in Raleigh, N. C. He seems to have inexhaustible energy, for he had been to a birthday ball in his own birth place, Washington, N. C., the night before, until 2 in the morning. We found Mrs. Daniels much improved since her return home, and had a pleasant family breakfast with two of their boys, whose wives and children dropped in to see us.

At 11 o'clock we started to Chapel Hill, but stopped on the way at the NYA center near Durham, where State Administrator Mr. John Lang is doing a really excellent piece of work with the North Carolina drafttees who were rejected for physical reasons. The medical setup is an example to rural areas, for here is a very unpretentious but extremely efficient small hospital, which could be duplicated in many places.

It is the type of setup which could become a county clinic, where rural doctors could pool their resources and send their patients, when they need medical attention for eyes, teeth and surgical care. For the yearly check-up, which doctors are emphasizing more and more for every individual, this kind of county clinic in rural areas will be invaluable.

We had a delightful luncheon at Chapel Hill with President and Mrs. Frank Graham and their guests, heard Miss Harriet Elliott, dean of the Woman's College at Greensboro, make an excellent talk before the delegates of the 32 colleges, who had gathered at Chapel Hill under the auspices of the Carolina Political Union and the International Student Service for a two-day conference. It was nice to find that both Miss Louise Morley, conference secretary of the I. S. S., and Miss Jane Seaver, of O.C.D., had made real friends among so many students from various colleges, who spoke to me about them with real appreciation.

Jane Seaver and I attended one of the forum discussion groups in the afternoon. I saw an excellent civilian defense information service set up in the college library, a very good local defense council control center in the town, had tea at the Presbyterian church parlor with a number of delegates, dined in the college cafeteria and spoke and answered questions in the auditorium in the evening at a meeting which Governor and Mrs. Broughton also attended.

We ended the day by a short visit at the birthday ball, which seemed very well attended. Then two of the boys drove us to Greensboro to take our train.

Contacts Bring More Colds Than Do Dampness, Drafts

By Dr. William Brady.

"I believe there would be far less respiratory infection from coryza to pneumonia, meningitis and infantile paralysis," (writes one) "I wish I could say mother, but the truth is that the writer is a father." "If people would spend as much effort avoiding contact with infected persons or possible carriers of infection as they do in worrying about trying to avoid drafts, dampness, wet feet or insufficient clothing, it would be more encouraging to hear such an avowal from a mother, but then, we must remember that mother is more susceptible to and more exposed to the old ho-kum bunkum than father is—the neighborhood Saireygamps get in their best licks after father has gone to work and mother is left alone with the children. Down at the office or shop Ben Told is a bit different about sounding off, but back home his wife Maria takes great pleasure in giving the young and, of course, inexperienced little mother, an earful.

"In our family," continues the young father, "our year-old baby has had no illness of any kind despite the fact that she sleeps in a drafty, unheated room. She has never been bundled or burdened with excessive clothing or bed covers in the way most doting mothers feel is necessary, and this has let us in for a great deal of censure from friends, relatives and neighbors, who are forever warning us the baby will get pneumonia."

"The irony of it is that these young fathers would think nothing of letting everyone and his uncle fondle and kiss their baby or letting the baby play on a dirty floor where no draft could reach the baby."

This young father has said all there is to say about the matter. But he is under no misapprehension concerning the popular view, for he adds "I have always believed your teachings are the truth, but I do not think you can hope to remove the deeply ingrained superstitions which the public so fondly cherishes."

Certainly not—I have learned that in a long campaign. But it is gratifying to receive now and then such testimony as this young father gives, that my teachings do have some effect.

Today's Charm Tip

A good deal of charm appeal is lost by the young woman who aims for the super-glamor role, when being sweet and wholesome and well groomed would better suit her real personality.

Mutual Friends Strengthen Marriage

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I plan to marry in the next two months, but as the date nears I feel that I should not go through with it. The man I am engaged to is someone whom I cannot figure out very well. I have been going with him for over a year and he gave me my ring Christmas. When he goes out, he often embarrasses me before my friends by getting furious over some little remark I make, and then acting hurt for the rest of the evening.

Pert Pattern For a Sports Dress

ning and pouting. He tells me that he sees no reason for me to want to go out with my friends, as I should consider him company enough. My friends tell me that I am crazy to put up with his foolishness. They tell me that I will never be happy with him. He has been engaged to three other girls and they all broke their engagements. What do you think I should do?

FIANCEE.

Your young man does not sound like a very good prospect to me. Since all your friends have gang-ed up against him, their opinions should amount to something and should be considered. I think his actions show the reason why his former engagements were broken. His disposition is such that it will not blend with yours, as has been proved by the way he acts. I think he is of a selfish nature, as well as conceited and I think you would be very foolish to ignore what your friends say. If his unattractive little actions are so obvious to your friends, they must be rather bad. I am afraid that there is not much basis for a happy marriage for you. Of course you do not expect to spend your life running around with others and never being with your husband, but the ability of a husband and wife to get along with mutual friends is very important.

'Pull Up' Is First In Rules Of Posture

By Ida Jean Kain.

You can save your energy by going into training for good posture. You tire yourself unnecessarily by working with your body off balance.

There is only one posture rule to be kept in mind all the time. That is to pull up. Your lower abdominal muscles should be yanked up and your midriff stretched until this sector feels nice and firm. The upward pull should be so strong that you are automatically impelled to lift your chest and hold your head erect.

But you should not hunch your shoulders or tense these muscles. To make sure that the shoulder girdle remains perfectly relaxed, let your arms hang down at the sides and shrug your shoulders loosely until you lose any feeling of tautness.

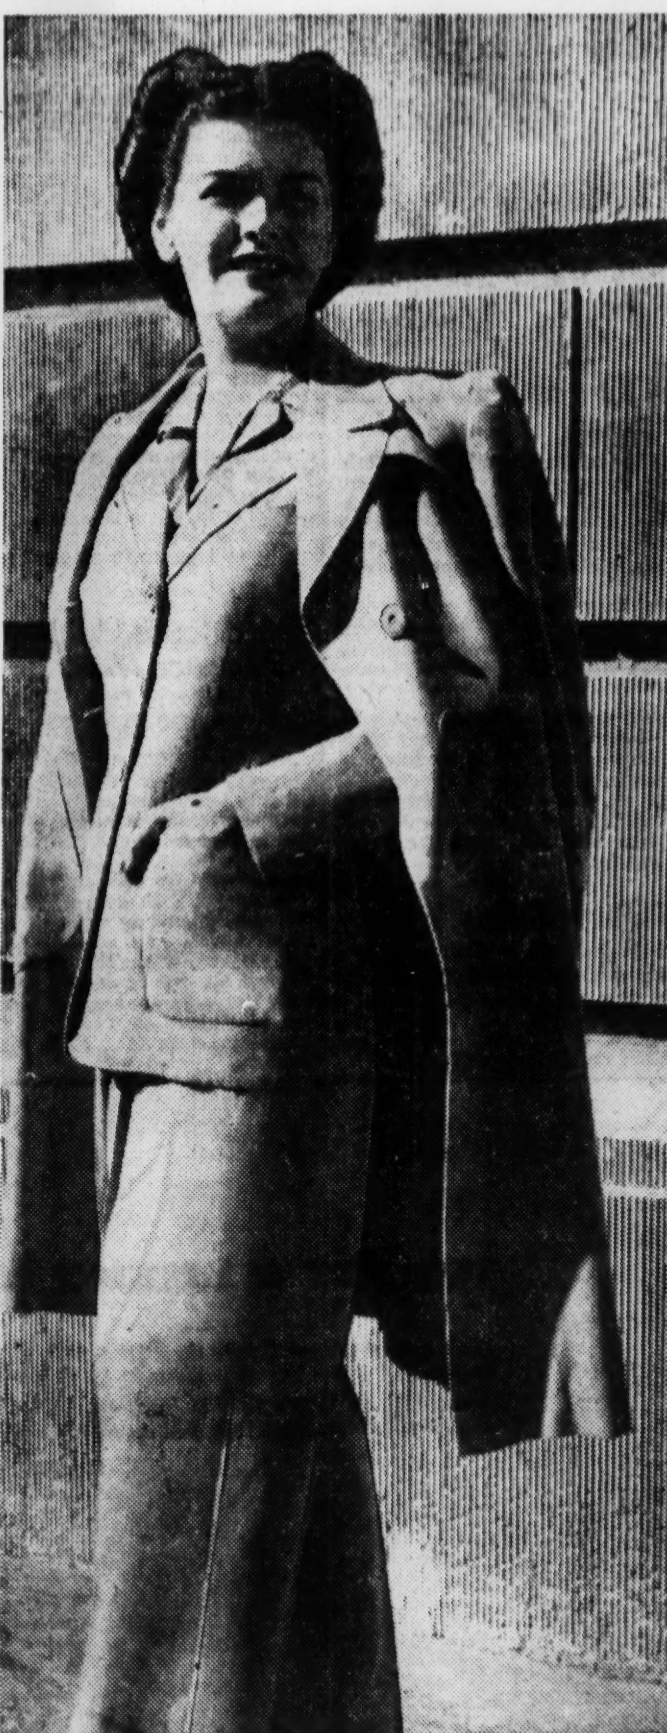

Everything you do is affected by your posture, even exercise. For good or bad, the way you stand is an exercise in itself. If you continually let your hips jut out as you swing your arms to straighten your shoulders, you may wind up away back. And if you let your abdominal girdle go slack as you bend over to supple your waist, you can't expect a flat front line.

The upward stretch and side-ward bend are fine for slimming the waist, provided you do not offset the good of the exercise by hunching your shoulders. The slimming is not worth the tension. To stretch and bend in correct posture, stand with feet apart, pull up through the midriff, and are the arms overhead with elbows turned out at sides, and clasp the hands. Watch yourself in the mirror and keep your shoulders down. Then bend slowly sideways without letting your figure lose its alignment.

A specific exercise isn't specific unless you pay attention to your posture. The whole trick is to force one particular set of muscles to do some work and to keep the others out of the movement. If you let your hips swing around as you twist at your waist, you might as well quit. You are not getting any real work out of your waistline muscles. Here's the right way to do that exercise: Stand erect with your arms held straight out at the sides shoulder level, but with shoulders relaxed and down. Now, hold your hips squarely to the front as you twist at the waist.

Good posture isn't merely a pose you assume when you want to make a good impression. It is the position in which you work most efficiently. Give posture its due while you are exercising and make a habit of pulling up all the time.

CHOCOLATE MERINGUE PIE

made the Spry FULL FLAVOR way

3 ounces chocolate, cut in pieces
2 1/2 cups milk
2 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 baked Spry Pie Shell
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
 Melt chocolate in milk in double boiler and blend with rotary egg beater. Mix flour, cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add to chocolate mixture and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly. The mixture should be thick and smooth. Pour over slightly beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook a few minutes longer. Add butter and vanilla. Cool.
 Pour filling into baked pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add vanilla. Pile on filling. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) 20 minutes, or until firm and delicately browned.

SPRY PIE SHELL

Use for all one-crust pies
1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3/4 cup cold water (about)
 Sift flour and salt together. Add 1/2 of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as meal. (So easy with triple-creamed Spry and you get such tender crust!) Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of large peas. Sprinkle water gradually over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together into a dough. Roll dough 1/8-inch thick and prick with fork. Fit into 9-inch pie tin and make fluted rim. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. See what delicate-tasting pastry you get, made with pure Spry. You'll love Spry FULL FLAVOR cakes and fried foods, too. (All measurements in these recipes are level.)

Miss Joiner Becomes Bride Of Ernest Camp, of Monroe

MONROE, La., Feb. 2.—Of interest throughout the state is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Marguerite Joiner, of Tennessee, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Joiner Jr., to Ernest Camp, of Monroe. The marriage was solemnized Saturday at the home of the bride's brother, J. H. Joiner, near Tennessee. The Rev. Roy Matthews read the marriage vows.

The bride wore a stunning costume of gentian blue, with draped peplum and neckline finished in floral buttons, with which she wore a matching coat and navy accessories. Her flowers were sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Camp is a graduate of the Harrison High school, and attended the South Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

On her maternal side she is descended from the Bridges and Peacock families, prominent settlers of North Carolina, and on her paternal side she is descended from the Smith and Joiner families, among original settlers of the present city of Durham, N. C.

Mr. Camp is the brother of the Walton Tribune, in Monroe, and is one of the state's most prominent editors. He served as president of the Georgia Press Association from 1925 until 1927, and for some time has been poet laureate of that group.

He is the author of several volumes of poetry which have attracted favorable comment. Prominent in state politics, he has served on the state democratic executive committee and was twice presidential elector from the state, and delegate to two national Democratic conventions.

Mr. Camp is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Camp, of Swainsboro, and is a native of Emanuel county. He is a brother of Judge R. Earl Camp, of Dublin, and Josephus Camp, of Atlanta.

Several new members have made application for membership and some special guests have been invited. Those attending are requested to bring at least one Valentine for the box.

Miss Bettye Henley Is Bride Of Toulman T. Williams Jr.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—An announcement which elicits sincere interest is that made today by Mrs. George DeFoor, of Atlanta, Ga., of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bettye Ruth Henley, to Toulman Taylor Williams Jr., also of Atlanta.

The ceremony was quietly solemnized on January 31 at 5 o'clock at the Trinity Methodist church here. Dr. Robert L. Allen read the marriage service, in the presence of the immediate families of the prominent young couple.

Mr. Williams and his bride departed after the ceremony for a wedding trip to Florida resorts, after which they will reside temporarily with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Toulman Taylor Williams, on Garmon road, in Atlanta.

Mrs. Williams and her husband are representatives of well-known Atlanta families. The groom's mother is the former Miss Hattie Mae High, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. M. High, of that city. Joseph High Williams, who is the groom's only brother, and Mrs. Williams journeyed here for the wedding.

Miss Harriet Williams Weds Robert F. Hodgson in Athens

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 2.—The residence of Dr. and Mrs. Barnett Osborne Williams, on Cobb street, here formed the setting last Friday evening for the marriage of their lovely young daughter, Miss Harriet Williams, to Robert F. Hodgson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Strahan Hodgson, also of this city.

Dr. James C. Wilkinson performed the marriage at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Lester Quattlebaum, pianist, presented a program of music. An improvised altar placed in the living room of the home was posed against a background of palms before which were placed candelabra which held lighted white tapers. Floor baskets filled with white gladioli formed the floral decorations. White satin ribbons which marked the aisle were held by Miss Katherine Morgan, of Gwynn; Miss Elizabeth Jenkins, of Hartwell; Mrs. George Hamilton Horton, of Spartanburg, S. C.; Mrs. Robert Wilson, Miss Margaret Paddock and Miss LaGrange Trussell, all of this city.

Miss Nell Woodruff Hodgson, the groom's sister, served as maid of honor. Her gown of bluish slipper satin was fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline. The bouffant skirt was graced with pink and blue forget-me-nots. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and blue Siberian iris.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Eugene P. Mallory, of Athens, his brother, White slipper satin fashioned the bride's Tide Gains 11th S.E.C. Victory Against a Single Loss.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 2.—(P)—Alabama overcame the University of Kentucky, 41 to 35, tonight for the Tide's first victory over a Wildcat quintet since 1940. It was Alabama's 11th Southeastern Conference victory. The Crimson's only loss was to Tennessee.

The Tide took the lead in the second minute of play and kept it throughout the match. Akers, Kentucky guard, won scoring honors with 12 points and was trailed by Adair, Alabama guard, with 11 points.

REINSTATEMENT IN GA.-FLA. GOAL OF TALLAHASSEE
AMERICUS, Ga., Feb. 2.—W. T. Anderson, president of the Georgia-Florida League, said today that Tallahassee has formally made application for reinstatement in the league, accompanying the request with a check for $600 as evidence of good faith.

Anderson said that G. L. Henderson, Tallahassee banker, would probably head the new club organization. Anderson quoted Henderson as saying the new set up had been assured ample financial support. President Anderson also said that Dothan, Ala., had made application for a berth in the league, following disbanding of the Alabama State League, in which the latter city had held a franchise.

A meeting will be held in Moultrie during the week and action will be taken on these applications, which, if accepted, will make the Georgia-Florida an eight-club league. Thomasville as well as Tallahassee previously had relinquished their franchises, and for a time it was thought the league would be operated with six clubs, namely, Americus, Albany, Moultrie, Valdosta, Waycross and Cordele.

And Clark Harrison, Decatur (Ga.) student at the University, is just about as happy because he brought Elwood his great joy. Friday night at the Victory ball celebration of the President's birthday, a football game between the Orange Bowl game between the Georgia Bulldogs and T. C. U., and photographed by every member of the Bulldog coaching staff and all of the players, was awarded to young Harrison.

The young Decatur boy knew of Elwood's great interest in the Bulldogs (he followed them in every game last season over his bedside radio at Warm Springs) and, despite the fact that the autographed ball was a trophy to be prized by anyone, he presented it to Elwood.

GEORGIA OFFICERS CALLED TO ACTIVE DUTY
Active Army duty was ordered yesterday for First Lieutenants Archie Robert Lewis, William Edward Owens and Edward Hart Putnam and Second Lieutenants Paul Bernard Barker and Robert Charles Aycock, all of Atlanta.

First Lieutenant Byron Robinson Smith, of East Point; First Lieutenant Joseph Newton Denny, of LaGrange, and Second Lieutenants Clayton Aubrey Silvey, of Milledgeville, and Thomas Randall Fluker Jr., of Quitman; Edwin Gaillard Adams Jr., of Greensboro, and Redding Crawford Souder Jr., of Macon.

First Lieutenants George Mitchell Allen, of Toxco; James Livingston Newton, of Albany, and Thomas Colquitt McKibben Jr., of Augusta, and Second Lieutenant William Henry Terry Jr., of Thomasville, also were ordered to active duty.

Umpires Applauded NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—A number of unusual things happened at the annual dinner of the New York baseball writers, attended by the notables of the game.

A Yale professor, Dr. William Lyon Phelps, praised umpires. Larry MacPhail expressed publicly a willingness to co-operate with the New York Giants. And the Little Flower, Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, proudly asserted for ex-Mayor Jimmy Walker's benefit that "We've won more pennants during my term than we did during yours."

In speaking of umpires, Billy Phelps said they must be fearless. "They're facing men who are strong and excited. Why, I once threw a bat at an umpire." He then asked for all umpires in the Commodore ballroom to stand. And as 1,000 guests gave them a hand, Dr. Phelps explained it was the last time they'd be applauded in 1942.

The annual all-star game is scheduled to be played at Ebbets Field, but Larry MacPhail suggested that it be held at the Polo Grounds which seats 20,000 more people. Only war would make MacPhail agree on anything where the Giants are concerned.

The list of speakers was as long as an India rubber man's arm, but the program moved incredibly fast considering that six hours were involved.

Almost as cheering to baseball people as the President's recent boost for the game was the statement by John B. Kelley, director of physical fitness for the O.C.D., that the material needed for sports amounts to less than one-half of one per cent of the present supply.

Photo Finish Dr. Phelps drew a robust laugh when he said, in the course of his talk, that "of course we gave up football a couple of years ago at Yale."

He drew a comic comparison between football and baseball, pointing out how the baseball fan instantly knows who has won the game.

"In football, however, one can never be sure. You have to wait a week to see what the pictures will show."

And to show, too, how human nature is the same, whether one absorbs culture at Yale or West Virginia Wesleyan, Dr. Phelps dug down deep in the cornfield for a laugh.

"We used to play a lot on Decoration Day," he declared. "There was a great deal of bunting." Britisher Sir Gerald Campbell was among the speakers and he pointed out how baseball offers double for the money.

"You watch the game and you watch the crowd," he explained.

In Short The baseball writers charged $10 a copy for their dinner and are turning proceeds over to the Red Cross. A handsome sum was realized. . . . If Larry MacPhail has his way part of all salaries of folks connected with baseball will be paid in Defense Bonds. He'd like to see baseball contribute a Flying Fortress to Uncle Sam. . . . Joe Williams, of the World Telegram, observes that if Joe DiMaggio is awarded one more plaque he can open up a hardware store. Sergeant Hank Greenberg accepted his plaque "in behalf of all the baseball players in the service." . . . It is Mayor LaGuardia's opinion that unless there is a vast change in international affairs baseball can expect a normal season.

Judge William G. Bramham is afraid that some 10 leagues in the minors will not survive the war. He is chiefly concerned with the leagues below Class A. Defense jobs offer more money for players.

. . . A little off base but hardly at a loss for words, James Joy Johnston, the fight manager, was at the baseball writers' dinner telling all who would listen that ample Abe Simon will beat Joe Louis the next time.

Get Off Is Third; Tigers Start Drills, Card Nine Games

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(P)—Circle M. Ranch's Get Off was soundly beaten in a $1,500 purse event today after having won the Palm Beach handicap and establishing himself as a contender for the $50,000 Widener cup.

Before 10,049 fans, the Edward S. Moore entry ran third, three lengths behind the long-shot winner, Pretty Pet, owned by John C. Clark, and Off Shore, which placed by a nose.

Auburn Seeks To Even Count With Jackets

Second Game of Series Slated at Alumni Gym at 8 O'Clock.

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 2.—One down in their two-game series with high-scoring Georgia Tech, Coach Ralph Jordan's Auburn hoopers, who have a fine record of seven wins again only two losses, will be seeking revenge in the return scrap with the Yellow Jackets in Alumni gymnasium at Auburn Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. The second meeting with Tech will be Auburn's seventh Southeastern Conference battle of the season.

In a preliminary to Tuesday night's Auburn-Tech Big Twelve bout, the Auburn Pinees, who have won four and lost two, will clash with Isabella High school at 6 o'clock. The Pinees will take the floor against Isabella, the only five to lock the championship Clanton quintet last season with one DeWitt Shy and Frank Wadsworth at forwards, Roy Crenshaw at center, and Zae Jenkins and Seddon Lee at guards.

Auburn dropped a 48-42 decision to the Engineers in the opening tilt in Atlanta, ahead, 26-24, at half-time, the Tigers wilted in the final half after center Shag Hawkins fouled out and could not cope with the Jackets' rally in the final minutes of the contest. Tech was up in front by one minute of 44-42 with one minute to play, but the Auburn reserves failed to check their fast-break the last few seconds and two quick baskets were registered.

Starters for Tech against Auburn Tuesday night are slated to be Gene Snyder and Buck Stevens at forwards; Jake Laine at center, and Captain Carlton Lewis and Jimmy Hearn at guards. Capable substitutes for Tech are David Crosby, Will Johnson and Guard Marshall.

A high scorer in the conference for the past two campaigns, the veteran Lewis, who, like Johnson, resides in Columbus and will have lots of hometown backers seeing him in action on the local court, led his team to the 48-42 triumph. He racked up an even 20 tallies. Hearn scored 10.

Coach Jordan might change Auburn's starting lineup for the second meeting with Tech, but it is believed that Frank Mancini and Frank Williams will open at forwards, Hawkins at center, and Fagan Canzonieri and Ben Park at guards. Mancini, at guard, has the No. 1 offensive average in the league, scorched the baskets with 17 markers in the first combat with Tech. Canzonieri also played well in the 48-42 scuffle.

Referees Call Oregon Game On Platforms

ASHLAND, Ore., Feb. 2.—(P)—Coach Jean Eberhart, of Southern Oregon College of Education, is running referees right off his basketball court—and into platforms above the baskets.

Eberhart was so pleased with Saturday's experience of putting the officials in cages above the floors that he intends to try it further.

Southern Oregon won the game from Oregon College of Education, 52 to 42, and visiting Coach Al Cox agreed the plan speeded up the contest.

The two referees whistled fouls from their platforms, explaining decisions through megaphones, and ball boys put the ball in play from the foul line and sidelines. Linesmen, seated on the floor, called out-of-bounds plays, as in tennis.

Fear that the officials might, with unobstructed vision, call a record number of fouls, was unfounded. Infractions were fewer than in the previous night's game between the same teams, in which officiating was orthodox.

But the officials did not miss much. Captain Bob Mulder, of Southern Oregon, said players found they could not get away with the numerous minor fouls possible under the regular system. Players also found they could not argue with the referee.

Friends Honor Harry Stephens At Druid Hills

Harry Stephens, pro at Druid Hills Golf Club, was honored at a surprise party last night in an anniversary celebration. He has been with the club 20 years.

The genial pro was given a live pig and rooster for his farm, as well as a 10-gallon churn. He also was presented with a handsome watch.

Harry's golf career has taken him all over the world. He has been at courses in Africa and Ireland, as well as in Great Britain and the United States.

The surprise party was given by Harry's friends at the club who got together for the occasion.

Social Affairs Will Honor Speakers For Judging School

Distinguished authorities on flower arranging and judging who will take part in the judging school to be sponsored next week at the Piedmont Driving Club by members of the Atlanta Flower Show Association, will be honored during their stay here with a series of social events.

Sharing honors will be Mrs. Arthur P. Teele, of Brookline, Mass.; Mrs. Sheffield Phelps, of Columbia, S. C.; John Wister, of Philadelphia, Pa., and C. Hayes Sprague, of New York, all of whom will be presented in lectures at the school February 10-13. Roy Bowden, of Athens, will also share honors.

The first of the affairs planned in their honor will be the luncheon to be given on Tuesday, February 10, by Mrs. Charles T. Win-ship, who will be hostess at the Piedmont Driving Club. In the evening of the same day, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings will be hosts at a buffet supper at their home in Decatur for the speakers.

On Wednesday, February 11, Mrs. Laurie Davis Webster, president of the Flower Show Association, will honor the visitors at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club, the affair to follow Mrs. Teele's lecture, and to precede Mr. Wister's talk on "Elementary Practices in Horticulture—Iris, Azaleas, Dahodias and Gladioli."

Members of the association will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Piedmont Driving Club, for last-minute plans on the show. The entire proceeds of the school will be given to the Red Cross, the expenses having been raised by private donation.

BABIES LOVE MILK made into rennet-custards

Mothers find that one of the best ways to give baby all the milk he needs is to make some of it each day into tempting rennet-custards. Children love to eat them with a spoon, and thus get more of the valuable nutrition which milk supplies so generously.

You can make these eggless, non-cooked custards at home with "Junket" Rennet Tablets—unsweetened, add sugar and flavor to taste. The rennet enzyme makes them digest more readily than plain milk. Widely recommended by doctors for babies and children. At your grocer's and drugist's.

Older children enjoy the flavors and colors of rennet-custards made with "Junket" Rennet Powder. Easier and quicker. At grocer's.

Baby 8 1/2-10—Made of new Byrene Plastic fabric; overall size; crumb pocket. Easy to keep clean, anti-proof. Pink or blue. Send 10c and front of "Junket" Rennet Powder or Tablet package to "The Junket Company," 145 E. 42nd St., New York, N. Y.

Majors To Play Two All-Star Games, Deadlock on Night Ball

National Loop Demands Limit Of 14 Contests

Landis Will Preside Over Joint Meeting Today.

By JUDSON BAILEY.
NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(P)—The major leagues moved toward the fullest co-operation with the nation's war effort today by voting to play two all-star games instead of one this year and to attempt to turn one-tenth of all baseball salaries into defense bonds.

Plans were made for holding the first all-star game in a National League park in an eastern city Monday, July 6, and the second game in an American League park in the west on Tuesday, July 7, possibly at night. The same squads will oppose each other in both games.

The leagues decided to double the regular season admission prices for the first game and to use the ordinary scale for the second game, but with the addition of one dollar in defense stamps to the price of every ticket for the latter contest.

In making the joint announcement of big league baseball's plans for helping the war effort, Presidents Ford Frick of the National League and William Harridge of the American League said that sites for the two all-star games remained to be selected.

AT POLO GROUNDS.
But it seemed probable that the first game would be in the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants, and that the second game would be in either Cleveland or Chicago, where lights are available. If the game should be played in Detroit, where last year's contest was held, it would have to be a day game.

This year's game originally was scheduled for Brooklyn's Ebbets Field on July 7. Its transfer to a larger park and the playing of two games instead of one was first proposed last night at the annual dinner of the New York baseball writers by Larry MacPhail, president of the Dodgers.

He also sponsored the plan for part payment of baseball salaries in defense bonds and stamps. While the two leagues agreed on devoting 10 per cent of salaries to this end, compliance necessarily was placed on a voluntary basis. However, Frick and Harridge said they hoped to make this concession unanimous from Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis right down through the role of league president club owners, players and all employees of organized baseball.

Another suggestion by MacPhail at the writers' dinner, that a small part of every admission be used toward buying one or more bombs, failed to capture the support of his fellow magnates and was not discussed in either meeting.

SERVICE MEN.
The two leagues decided to leave to each individual club the manner of admitting service men to their ball parks and the scheduling of exhibition games with service teams.

Night baseball proved a stumbling block and when the two leagues adjourned tonight after more than seven hours of continuous sessions they still were disagreed as to a uniform program of night games.

The National League voted to increase its limit to 14 home games for any one club and this figure was agreed to by all the American League clubs except the Washington Senators.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, contended that he has a special problem with hundreds of thousands of daytime workers in the capital and that if two-club cities such as Philadelphia and St. Louis could have a total of 28 games divided between the leagues, then he should be able to have 28 for Washington.

Don Barnes, president of the beleaguered St. Louis Browns, said he was satisfied with an increase to 14 night games for his club, but he and his fellow magnates in the American League agreed to support Griffith in his plea for local option.

This tossed the whole question over to tomorrow's joint meeting at which Commissioner Landis will preside. In effect this meant that the white-haired czar of the national game would decide how many night games, and whether a uniform number, should be played.

The American League also considered the financial difficulties of the Browns. No action was announced, but Barnes said that he now could look forward to the season hopefully.

Once Valuable Augusta Club For Sale Cheap

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—(P)—Augusta's South Atlantic League baseball franchise, once valued at $20,000, was offered for sale today by Owner Troy Agnew for "practically nothing."

Agnew said he definitely would not "begin the 1942 season as the Augusta clubowner." If he is unable to sell his holdings, Agnew said he would turn the franchise back to the league for disposition.

The club's owner said he would charge "between $5,000 or $6,000" for the baseball park, lighting equipment, bleachers and uniforms. He said he would part with the franchise for $4,000. Included in the sum, he said, would be $1,700 on deposit with the league in the name of the Augusta club.

Agnew admitted that a change in ownership was doubtful but said he was prepared to dispose of the franchise in one way or another. In 1929 the Augusta club had the highest per capita income of any Sally League team.

Cochrane Suffers Injuries to Scalp

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 2.—(P)—Welterweight Champion Freddie Cochrane, who was injured in Newport early Sunday morning when knocked down by an automobile, will have to pass up two nontitle bouts which had been arranged for him this month and next.

The champion was scheduled to appear in New Orleans on February 23 and in Philadelphia on March 10 against opponents to be selected. Both shows were for war benefits.

Cochrane, a boxing instructor at the Newport Naval Training Station, suffered a scalp wound, which required suturing, an abrasion of the left ear and a bruise on the calf of the right leg, according to his manager, Willie Gilzenberg, of Newark, N. J., who visited the boxer today.

Cochrane will be in the hospital for at least three weeks, officials said.

Cager Who Couldn't Get Points Becomes Purples' Top Scorer

Charles Brooks Shot So Poorly He Lost Forward Berth; Now Leads Team From Guard Post.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.
A basketball playing kid who was such a poor shot he lost his job as a first string forward is leading his team in scoring and apparently sparking that team to its second consecutive championship.

That is the story of Charles (Little Old Man) Brooks, Boys' High whirlwind who is playing his first year as a regular for the defending champions of the Big Six League.

In early season warm-up games Coach Dwight (Abo) Keith had the Mercury-heeled youngster playing forward, but Brooks' inability to hit the basket with any regularity prompted the Silent Man of Parkway to replace him.

However, the little, black-haired lad was such a hustler, such an adept ball-handler and such a fine floor-man that Keith had him starting at a guard position when the league opened. The change has paid off handsomely.

LEADS TEAM.
With the season half over Brooks has fired 39 points through the hoops in five games, at least eight more than any other member of the quintet which is tied with Tech High for the loop lead.

Raymond Echols, a tiny, little youngster who also is in his first season as a member of the Purple Hurricane, is second with 31 points.

All-G. I. A. A. Guard Clint Cletchery, who has been action in only three of the tilts because of an injured shoulder, has 28. The other veteran back from last year, Lester Hughes, whom Keith had nicknamed "Cassius" because "he has that lean and hungry look" which Julius Caesar ascribed to that illustrious plotter of his death, comes next with 24 points, and newcomer David Hambrick follows with 21.

REAL STANDOUT.
But getting back to Mrs. Brooks' youngster. He is the sensation of the league this year. His uncanny ability to start quickly and his great speed of foot have made it possible for him to steal the ball and rush down the court for easy "crip" shots at least once or twice in every game played so far.

His devil-may-care dashing down the court has crashed him headlong into the walls at the end of the court on numerous occasions. He carries with him that certain something that has the fans watching him at every turn.

The Lanier Poets, one of the best teams in the state and one which already has beaten Boys' High, came here the other night and the Purple five amazed everyone by holding the high-scoring Macon entry to five points in the first half and 14 during the entire game. It was a truly remarkable defensive job, and again it was Charles Brooks who sparked the Purple. Ten points, more than half their total of 19, were sunk by the lad who was such a poor shot he lost his job as a forward.

Anderson Signs; Pay Is Increased
Alf Anderson received and returned his 1942 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was signed.

Anderson last year was a holdout, agreeing to terms just before the start of the training season.

The former Cracker and Georgia star said the papers called for a "satisfactory increase." He is slated to open the year as regular shortstop for the Bucs, now that the Army has claimed young Bill Cox and the Dodgers have bought Arky Vaughan.

Anderson is recovering from a recent tonsil operation and expressed confidence that he would have a better year as a major league sophomore.

Terry's Oral Seal Upheld by Landis

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(P)—Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis ruled today that First Baseman Johnny McCarthy, whom the New York Giants had sold to Columbus, of the American Association, must instead be sent to Indianapolis, in compliance with a verbal agreement Bill Terry, of the Giants, had made with Leo Hartnett, of Indianapolis, in Chicago, December 9.

The Giants had assigned McCarthy's contract to Columbus, a farm of the St. Louis Cardinals, after completing their deal for Johnny Mize.

City Basketball

CITY LEAGUE.
Atlanta Southern Dental College Greens and Erikson Manufacturing Company will meet in a feature attraction on the City Basketball League program of four games Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

The "Molers" have been stepping along so far this season without a defeat. The Erikson squad, though the latter team will present a strong lineup in the hopes of giving Coach Harpo's charges its initial loss of the season. This contest will close the four-game card and is to get under way in their last four appearances.

BEIL SYSTEM'S "WRONG NUMBERS" round out the four-game card by matching its cage wits against the Columbia Seminary "Franchising Franchise."

SEWELL SERVICE RED ELEPHANTS vs. Texaco Fire Chiefs.
7:45 o'clock, Columbia Seminary vs. Beil System.

WALTHOUR GIRLS' LEAGUE.
Joe Bean's Georgia Power Trojans, undefeated leaders of this league, the Speedway girls are given an outside chance of spoiling the Greenies' record.

Should Speedway trip the Greenies, the race will end in a tie with either Walworth & Hood or Hertz Driveline.

Sewell Service Red Elephants clash with Brookhaven at 8:30 o'clock and Walworth & Hood tangles with Hertz Driveline at 9:30 in the other two games. The latter skirmish should be a brilliant struggle all the way.

Jewell Young And His Mates Show at Arena

Kautsky All-Americans Play Police Benefit Game Here Feb. 20.

By THAD HOLT.
Kautsky's All-Americans from Indianapolis, the great National League team which spilled the New York Celtics all over Sports Arena last year, will appear in Atlanta on the night of Friday, February 20, against the Atlanta Crackers.

All net proceeds from the game will be used to buy badly needed uniforms for the Atlanta police band, which will sponsor the appearance here of the All-Americans.

Neal Ellis, assistant chief of police, announced yesterday that choice seats would be placed on sale at Reader & McGaughey for a limited number of days and that members of the band already were selling tickets and reporting great progress.

No team, professional or amateur, ever has created the sensation in Atlanta that the All-Americans brought about last year with their marvelous performance which produced a 44-41 victory over the hitherto invincible.

And how about the Kautsky lineup this year? Does it still include Jewell Young, considered by most experts as the greatest basketball player in the world today?

Jewell Young is still the star member of the Kautsky cast. This a m a z i n g ex-Purdue southpaw dribbler appears to be better than ever. He has been either first or second in the National League scoring race throughout this season.

The All-Americans are actually a stronger team, according to northern critics than they were a year ago. Returning also from last year's crew are Mark Ertel, the clever center who formerly was a captain at Notre Dame, and Johnny Sines, who teamed with Young in high school and for four years at Purdue.

Eagles Down Cracker Quint In Athens Go

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 2.—In a well-played game before a turnout of about 1,000 people, the Detroit Eagles defeated the Atlanta Crackers in Woodruff hall here tonight, 36 to 31.

The Eagles were hard-pushed the first half and were behind, 9 to 8, at the end of the first quarter, but they finally got their eye on the basket and gradually pulled out in front, and during the last few minutes kept the crowd in hysterics with their antics.

Difference in the score was at the foul line, where the Eagles made eight of nine attempts. The Crackers sank three foul goals out of six efforts.

West Point Reclaims Biff Jones After Decade of Grid Success

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(P)—Biff Jones, once more Major Lawrence McC. Jones, returned to his Alma Mater today as graduate manager of athletics after an absence that was just three days less than 10 years.

It was a decade ago this week that the then Captain Jones left the Point to take over the football chores at Louisiana State University. He followed that with a tour of duty at Oklahoma University and five years ago became football coach and director of athletics at the University of Nebraska.

Still attired in a business suit, Jones said he expected to break out in a "uniform of some sort in a few days." He resigned from the Army to take the Husker post and was recalled last month.

His arrival kept alive a legend that "There'll always be a Jones at West Point."

He and his brother, Colonel Herbert M. Jones, were graduated by the military academy at about the same time and since 1913, when Biff entered as a cadet, one of the two has been on duty at the Point at all times except for several months a few years ago.

Total	275 257 268 243 195—1238—246 262 239 210 263—1220—2458

The above scores tell the story in cold figures—but they fall far short in coming anywhere near to portraying the breathless excitement that prevailed toward the end of a hard-fought ten-game doubles tournament. The scene was Columbus, Ga. The event—the sixth annual Georgia State Open Doubles Tournament. The time, Saturday and Sunday, January 31 and February 1.

Alley records fell right and left when Atlanta's two top doubles teams took the runways for an all-out battle that was in doubt down to the last ball thrown by Jack Sheriff. For the winners it was a culmination of a long dream—for the losers a heartbreaking loss to take.

Bill Berry and Ed Pearce cracked the all-time alley singles records for 10 games in Columbus with 1271 and 1299, topping the previous high of 1262 set up by Bob Edmonds, of Columbus. The winning doubles combination raised their own alley record of 2422 to 2468 for the 10 games, and in doing so also increased the five-game doubles score from 1242 to 1257.

Coming up to the tenth and final game, these two teams were tied to the actual pin in scores and finished in a blaze of super bowling with 273 and 263.

Lots of credit goes to all four bowlers but to Joe Chambliss and Jack Sheriff—we say hats off! Their partners far outstripped them in actual scores—but to the man who can get bad break after bad break and keep coming back for more—again we say hats off!

At the end of the first block of five games, Berry and Sheriff were out front with 1238, followed by Charlie Williams and his brother, W. Williams, who resides in Columbus, with 1226; Lowry Whisenant and W. F. Lowry with 1223 and Pearce and Chambliss with 1211. Low games by the second and third teams at the start of the second block enabled the eventual winners to move up past them and lock horns with the team of Berry and Sheriff. From the seventh game on it was a red hot battle, both teams making spares after spare and occasionally throwing in a strike with telling effect.

Crowds overflowed the alleys and from the noise they made it was easy to see that they were getting their fill of suspense and excitement.

This marked the first time in the history of the Georgia State Doubles that champions have repeated in successive years or in any years.

Linda Finds Steve At Lunch With Brenda

INSTALLMENT XLIX.

"Feeling much better, thank you. She promised to come to Chicago for a visit when she's completely well."

"And—Pratirevale?" curiously, answered. "It looks just the same. It is the same. Jane Miller is still typing letters for Harcourt, Simmons and Hanover. Kyle is working—and plugging along as usual. Sally and Hugh are sublimely happy and expecting a blessed event in the spring."

She described her activities—the lectures, the teas and dinners, and Diane laughed. "What a difference from your former life there. Would you like to return to that way of living?"

Linda could not suppress a shiver at the thought. "It doesn't seem possible that I ever lived there, and yet I suppose I was happy. Of course Sally and Hugh aren't tied down, and they can pick up and leave if it becomes boring, but my life wouldn't have been like theirs."

"I would have had a little house, children, but there would always have been insecurity. Something would have been lacking. I think that thing would be—harmony."

"And you have that quality with Steve?"

Linda hesitated. Why was Diane always so curious, so prying when it came to her relationship with Steve? Did the artist suspect theirs had been an unusual marriage?

"Naturally," she said, and although it had not always been true, still the future seemed rosy and bright and Linda felt she was committing no falsehood in her reply.

Smiling a little she lifted her head to glance around the well-filled room, and in that instant her air-castles tumbled. With the color draining from her face she stared at the beautiful, grinning, ashen-haired woman seated in a secluded booth across the room. Brenda Coleman, Brenda, laughing, assured. And her companion? One glance showed Linda—Brenda's companion was—Steven Baridon!

Brenda was speaking, confidently looking into Steve's face, and as Linda watched, frozen, the girl's hand crept into Steve's and nestled there.

Without a word Linda pushed back her chair and got to her feet, her one desire being to leave the room unnoticed. One glance at her face and Diane's head turned to view the cozy scene. Then, silent, she rose and followed Linda onto the street.

"Linda—" she began, uncertainly. The other girl did not see her. Her face was like a mask, disbelieving. Cold.

On sudden inspiration, Diane took her arm. "You're coming up to my studio," she said, firmly. "It's only a block away, and we can walk."

Linda started to protest; then, docilely, she turned and walked down the street. Brenda and Steve! It was unbelievable. Steve was in New York—or had that been merely his way of refusing to meet her? She had been mad to think his goodbye kiss, his murmured words had meant anything.

"You jumped at conclusions once before," Linda told herself, "and look what happened. Don't be so glib this time."

In Diane's studio she collapsed, weeping. Then she poured out the entire story, sparing no detail in a description of her happiness on the farm, of Steve's kindness and generosity.

"I love him so much," she said, "and I thought that he loved me, too, but I was wrong. It was Brenda. It has always been Brenda. She's been like a ghost between us and I was a fool to think he would ever forget her."

"I've suspected something like this," Linda admitted, "although I didn't think it was quite this way. I'll be frank, honey, in telling you Brenda is a bad enemy. She has made Jerry's life a living torture despite his love for her, and once she makes up her mind to win Steve back again—"

Linda made a noble decision. "Steve was very good to me. Diane, when I needed understanding and kindness. It's only right that I should try to remedy a bad mistake."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that I won't stand in the way of Steve's happiness. Knowing him, I'm afraid he would never say anything, but leave the decision to me. If I can show him I don't care—"

"But you do care!"

"You must forget all that I told you," Linda said, quickly. "Sweat to me, Diane, that you will never tell him anything I've said, no matter how important it may seem to you."

The artist hesitated, but Linda's expression was one of such abject pleading that Diane could not refuse.

"I have a feeling this isn't right," she said, "but—I promise, Linda, never to tell anyone what you told me here today."

Suddenly Linda kissed Diane's cheek. "Thank you, I'm sure I can depend on you." She moved to the door, then paused. "Diane—no matter what happens, or how strange my actions may seem, please trust me."

Diane was bewildered. Linda had seemed sad and dejected. Now she was crisp and sure. Her face was devoid of emotion, save for an intent expression in her eyes. Hesitantly, Diane nodded. "I trust you," she said.

Entering her own apartment, Linda went immediately to the telephone and grimly dialed a familiar number, a number she had expected to dial again. The sound of the bell echoed in her ears, and then Greg Hollister's familiar, masculine voice reached her.

"Greg, darling!" Linda's voice was sweet and soft, carrying his name while tears coursed down her cheeks.

"Why, Linda, this is a surprise!" Greg made no pretense of hiding his pleasure. He had been sitting in his apartment, staring at a picture of Steve and his wife snipped from a newspaper, and wishing savagely he had not made such a mess of things.

Now that Linda was the wife of a popular and successful novelist, she symbolized in Greg's eyes all the qualities he most admired in a woman—glamor, beauty, wealth and position.

The fact that she was already married, and, apparently, happy, did not enter into Greg's scheme of things. He had expected to win her as easily as he had the first time; instead, she had made him almost ashamed of his ill treatment of her, and he was out.

Those had been Linda's instructions. "I've been away," she murmured softly. "After all, Greg, you're my only real friend in Chicago. I shouldn't like to think you'd forgotten me." Linda was sick with shame at her own actions. How could she go on with this farce, when her heart was crying out to Steve for understanding? Then she remembered Steve laughing with Brenda Coleman, and steered herself against weakening.

"But I haven't forgotten," Greg objected anxiously. "If you'd only let me take you to dinner this evening—"

Could this be Greg, this humble, pleading man whom Linda had thought so indifferent, so audacious?

"Why Greg, how perfectly sweet

What's happened since the days when Benito used to sound the hours from a balcony with the regularity of a cuckoo?

I was in Italy in 1938 and even then Benito was ear-marked for oblivion. I ought to know for every night my chauffeur reported to the Gestapo.

It was then an oily and menacing border official asked about my passport. "Who shall we notify in case of accident?"

And I told him, "Notify me—and there won't be any accident."

of you to ask me—and Steve out of town."

"May I call for you around 7?"

"I—I'm afraid that wouldn't be wise," Linda said ruefully. "You see, the servants might talk. Couldn't I meet you somewhere?"

"Of course," Greg had a fear of unfavorable comment. He named the place and time, and Linda replaced the telephone on its cradle with a sinking heart. The—

It was done, and there was no undoing now. Soon everyone would know that Linda and Greg were seeing each other. Then Steve could have his divorce and Brenda would be his once more. Linda dismissed Jerry Coleman's statement that he would never love Brenda. Knowing the blonde beauty, Linda was sure Brenda could have anything she made up her mind to possess.

Linda's face was white and drawn, her eyes anguished as she turned slowly from the telephone.

Then she stood stiffly—staring into the hard, unrelenting face of Steve Baridon. One glance assured her that the conversation with Greg had been overheard, and Linda was suddenly glad. She wanted to hurt him for breaking her heart.

"Well," Linda said pertly, through sheer force of will. "Welcome home, Steve."

Following Linda's insolent acceptance of his return, Steve's eyes glowed angrily.

"To whom were you talking on the telephone?" he demanded.

"Really, Steve. That should be fairly obvious."

"Since when have you been in the habit of making engagements with other men in my home?" Steve was white with anger. Scarcely knowing what he said, he raged on until Linda cried out:

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21 and April 19 (ARIES)—Between 10:31 a. m. and 7 p. m. favors general business and professional activities, matters pertaining to law, religion and philosophy. After 7 p. m., use special care in driving.

April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS)—Your judgments, especially in connection with financial affairs, close relatives and written matter, should be unusually good today. After 12:46 p. m., favors attending to matters connected with professional people and literary endeavors.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—During the entire day and until 10:12 p. m., indicates a time when you should closely look at everything, business, personal affairs, new friendships and all new propositions that are put up to you. After 7:38 p. m., favors new beginnings and sociability.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—The entire day may be considered very favorable, with the best part of the day after 3:40 p. m.

July 23 and August 22 (LEO)—The entire day favors the general business, personal affairs, new friendships and all new propositions that are put up to you. After 7:38 p. m., favors new beginnings and sociability.

August 23 and September 22 (VIRGO)—Watch your step today, as the aspects incline to high nervous tension, which may bring in hasty and impulsive decisions. The best part of the day operates during the afternoon.

September 23 and October 22 (LIBRA)—The entire day and until 10:12 p. m., favors dealings that call for graciousness of manner and interests that are of a practical nature. The period favors research, study, investigations, for dealings with managers, officials and community interests.

October 23 and November 21 (SCORPIO)—Very favorable influences predominate before 3:47 p. m., for general business activities, wholesale and retail, for dealings with professional people, for matters related to education, for social and artistic affairs. There are times, however, when influences, while helpful, lead to extravagance, and this period is one of them.

November 22 and December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—During the day

Black To Conduct American Concert

Dr. Frank Black, one of radio's most brilliant symphonic conductors and a pioneer in presenting new American compositions, will direct the NBC Symphony Orchestra in its initial all-American program of the season when he makes the first of two guest appearances with the orchestra tonight at 9:30 o'clock over the Blue network and WAGA.

Besides being all-American, the program also will be in the nature of an all-symphony affair.

The program, Caponsacchi, by Cooley. Variations on an Original Theme for Viola and Orchestra, by Schulman. Vardi, viola soloist. Sinfonietta, by Spialek.

Newspaperman Pays Tribute To an Ex-Police Reporter

By Damon Runyon.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—"Dear Damon. I would like to make a suggestion for a column."

Thus begins a letter that has just reached us.

It was obviously hastily typed and with deep feeling.

There are spots on the pages that might be from tears.

It is from a widely known former newspaperman of Los Angeles and is about an old pal who died recently under the most tragic circumstances.

We will not attempt to expand or improve on the letter. No words of ours could add anything to it as a tribute to a man to a departed comrade.

Here it is:

"(The suggestion for a column) is the story of a former police reporter. Just a little guy with a heart so big that it finally cost him his life.

"The guy I refer to is Otto Winkler, who lost his life in the plane crash with Carole Lombard and crashed to eternity with him the love and friendship of everyone who knew him, including the jail bums he helped in his reporter days as well as the big stars and film magnates he worked for.

"The world can well sing the fame of Carole Lombard because she was a radiant and joy-giving creature, smiled on by fame and well-deserved fortune. But here in Hollywood there are many, too, who will long remember Otto, for a record of kindnesses that were countless.

"For 10 years he covered the police beat for the Los Angeles Examiner. A brown-haired, boyish-looking fellow who always had a heart in a heartless profession. He was known as a guy who helped more unfortunates than any man on the beat, including the cops and the judges. When, unfortunately, Hollywood's celebrities found themselves involved in trouble, Otto always gave them a helping hand.

"His bosses, Ray Van Etisch, Jimmy Richardson and Harry Morgan, will tell you that Otto never hurt anyone to get a story and yet he always got the story. And they aver that he was as good a police reporter as ever covered the beat.

"In the course of working as a police reporter Otto eventually got to know practically every Hollywood big wig, the stars, producers, writers and all the multitude of colorful characters. So, quite naturally, he gravitated into a studio job. At M.-G.-M., where he became a public relations man for a great guy, Howard Strickling, he was a favorite with Clark Gable, Walter Pidgeon, L. B. Mayer and all the others on the lot.

"Big, happy-go-lucky Clark Gable was especially fond of this little guy who, any hour of the day or night, would chase around helping people in trouble. When Gable and Carole Lombard went to Kingman, Ariz., to get married, Otto went with them and handled the story. When they were lost in Mexico, Otto went down there and found them.

"So when Gable couldn't accompany Carole to Indianapolis for the defense bond rally that became her rendezvous with death, Otto Winkler was the fellow he trusted to look after her. Otto was glad to go because he was helping a friend and he lost his life helping his friends and his country.

"The big shots have no more to live for than the little ones. Otto, at 35, had a beautiful wife whose love for him, as his for her, was as glamorous a love tale as any of Hollywood's publicized romances. Jill Winkler might have been a movie star, too, because she was rising in the ranks when she met Otto and married him. But she gave up her career for the biggest thing in her life.

"And just when things were the happiest tragedy came winging its way to crash against the Nevada mountains.

"And the little guy with the big heart, the man who had written the record of a thousand heartbreaks for the papers, got his own name in print at last."

Bankhead Bows As Drama Star On Radio Show

Tallulah Signed by Johnny Presents; Turns Down Film Offer.

Tallulah Bankhead, luminary of the New York and London stage, will begin her first regular radio series as dramatic star of the "Johnny Presents" program with its broadcast tonight at 8 o'clock over WSB. She is to be heard each week in a play adapted from a great love story and directed by Charles Martin.

The actress, who has long admired Martin's work, turned down an offer of $60,000 from Warner Brothers to make a picture entitled "Mrs. Skeffington" so that she might begin her radio series. Her contract calls for a payment of $2,750 per program. "Suspicion," a dramatization of Dorothy Sayre's short story of that name, is scheduled for the first broadcast of the series. She succeeds Anna Merkel, who has just completed a dramatic series on the "Johnny Presents" program, also written and directed by Martin.

Miss Bankhead, a native of Jasper, Ala., is a daughter of the late William B. Bankhead, speaker of the United States house of representatives. Once the homefolks referred to her as "Speaker Bankhead's gal." Later they spoke of the distinguished congressman as "Tallulah's father."
